Russians Launch Big 'Space Station' With New Booster

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched a 12.2 metric ton scientific space station called Proton 1 into earth orbit Friday.

The 26,840 pound satellite was catapulted into space by what Tass called "a new powerful booster rocket."

First reports said the new "space station" was the heaviest object ever orbited and therefore indicated the Soviet Union had repassed the United States by developing a rocket with the world's most powerful thrust.

Weight Disputed

However, these claims depended on how the weight was defined.

The United States Titan 3C rocket, with a thrust of 2.65 million pounds, put a 21,000 pound dummy satellite into orbit last month attached to the second stage of the rocket which brought total weight to 32,347 pounds.

After six hours the two sections separated, but both continued in orbit.

American scientists noted the Soviet satellite had no rocket attached and estimated that, if it did, the two together would weigh about 40,000 pounds.

Earlier the United States orbited the 37,799-pound Saturn, but that again was not quite the same thing.

Tass said Proton-1 was intended to study cosmic particles of superhigh energies.

The station, Tass said, is in an orbit with a high point of 390 miles and a low point of 118 miles. The inclination is 63.5 degrees and the period of revolution around the earth is 92.45 minutes.

The announcement by the official news agency indicated that the boosting rocket was the most important factor in the experiment.

Few Details Told

"In order to insure the realization of the planned research program, a new powerful booster rocket has been developed in the Soviet Union," it said. There were no further details about the rocket.

Earlier, Tass announced the Soviet Union had launched five artificial earth satellites into orbit with a single rocket Friday.

They were identified as Nos. 71 through 75 in the Cosmos series whose announced purpose is scientific research. The unmanned series began in March 1962.

The Tass announcement said the five Sputniks went into nearly circular orbits, with all equipment functioning normally.

Stevenson Brought To Native Land

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — For the last time, Adlai E. Stevenson came home Friday to the State Capitol that started him, a politically obscure Chicago lawyer, on his way to statesmanship and international acclaim.

Stevenson's body was brought here after a morning service in the vast Washington Cathedral attended by President and Mrs. Johnson and hundreds of other notables.

A Civilized Man

"This completely civilized man," is the way a eulogist described Stevenson.

Here everything was kept simple.

There were no eulogies. Those who followed the flag-draped casket were mostly relatives or friends who had known Stevenson for years.

Even the resting place in the State Capitol was simple though historic: An old railroad table on which the body of Abraham Lincoln had rested on its prolonged trip from Washington to Springfield a century ago.

Maybe things here were the more impressive because of their simplicity.

The President's big plane roared in and down the runway while a 19-gun salute — an honor reserved for governors — was fired by a National Guard howitzer.

Around 2,500, including Gov. Otto Kerner, were at the airport. And Stevenson would have been pleased if he had known how many young people were among them. He always had a particular appeal for the young.

It was a summer day so typical of the Illinois prairies, hot and almost cloudless. Slowly the hearse moved toward the Capitol — its silver dome shimmering against the blue sky — which Stevenson entered as governor in 1949.

There was one detour. The entourage turned off to go past the tomb of another Illinois lawyer, Abraham Lincoln, who went on to the presidency and unforgettable martyrdom.

Then to the Capitol where the body will lie in state until Sunday morning, when it will be taken to Stevenson's hometown, Bloomington, to be buried on the family plot.

Curiously, the respects are being paid Stevenson in the exact reverse of the way he won fame.

His sudden death, felled by a heart attack at 65, in London Wednesday, brought regrets from the greats of the world, testimony of his skill as a diplomat and U.S. representative to the United Nations.

In Washington Friday were many reminders that the Democratic party had twice chosen him as its candidate for the presidency, only to have him lose both times to a popular general, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Lightning Hits North Monroe Power Station

Friday's inclement weather seemed to hit a staggered pattern in Northeast Louisiana.

A swift downpour and severe lightning struck Monroe in the afternoon. Electricity was out in the north section of the city for more than an hour. French L. Smith, general manager of the City Utilities Commission, said an apparent direct hit by lightning on the Forsythe Sub-Station caused the temporary disorder. He said the strike damaged the control apparatus at the station. Repairs were quickly made by linemen crews and electricity was restored.

Ruston and Farmerville reported about ten minutes of heavy rainfall and long, severe flashes of lightning. The Ruston area became suddenly dark Friday afternoon and the ensuing downpour flooded several city streets.

Although rain threatened Tallulah and there were reports of some in adjacent areas, none hit that city. Also, there was no precipitation at Hodge, while nearby Jonesboro had a steady downpour for a few minutes.

A repeat of the past several days may be in store for the area today, as partly cloudy skies with afternoon and evening thundershowers are forecast.

The high will be between 90 and 95, while the low will range from 70 to 75.

Friday's high was 92, and the low was 71.

FAA at Selman Field reported .05 inches of rain for Friday.

Winds today will be southerly five to 15 miles per hour.

Saigon Chief Calls For U.S. To Boost Aid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government gave a boost Friday to the idea of swelling U.S. ranks in the Vietnamese war. It asked Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara for a further rise in American force levels in Viet Nam.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman, Barry Zorthian, told newsmen that if the Johnson administration agrees to the Vietnamese recommendations "we would go about it quickly."

Hanoi Sees U.S. Defeat

McNamara's latest fact-finding survey was denounced as "another act of sabotage against world peace" in a Viet Cong statement broadcast by Radio Hanoi. The statment declared the United States has suffered heavy failures in Viet Nam and is doomed to crushing defeat.

Among developments sharing attention with the McNamara mission:

—A military spokesman announced U.S. Army Sgt. Isaac Camacho, 28, El Paso, Tex., captured by guerrillas who overran a camp 25 miles northwest of Saigon Nov. 24, 1963, has escaped to safety. He reappeared Tuesday, apparently in good condition.

The spokesman said Camacho has now been removed from the country. He refused to say where. Details of the escape were withheld on the ground such information might harm other captives of the Viet Cong.

—U.S. Marines killed a Viet Cong sniper while clearing a village five miles south of Da Nang, the spokesman announced. No longer authorized to give specific losses of Americans or Vietnamese troops in any engagement, he said Marine casualties were light.

—Reported Viet Cong losses in an abortive ambush 15 miles south of Da Nang Thursday were raised from 56 to 152. The spokesman said this figure was confirmed. A correspondent in Da Nang said it was known that one battalion — perhaps 300 men — had been knocked out as an effective fighting force.

Police Scatter Greek Rioters

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Police fired tear gas grenades Friday night into a crowd of 200 stone-throwing demonstrators who were shouting for the return of ousted Premier George Papandreou. The mob formed shortly after King Constantine swore in the new government of Premier George Athanasiadis Novas.

The king had flown back to his Corfu Island summer residence, but even as the 25 year old monarch's plane was aloft, police moved swiftly.

Seven of these were holdovers from the government of George Papandreou, 77, whom the king fired 24 hours previously in a clash of wills.

Premier Has Trouble

The announcement of the new government came suddenly amid reports that the new premier was having difficulty getting members of his — and Papandreou's — Center Union party to accept portfolios.

Athanasiadis Novas, 72, was sworn in Thursday as premier after Papandreou broadcast a resignation statement. The new premier, who had been president of Parliament, quickly joined battle with Papandreou for the loyalty of the Center Union party.

The fact that seven members of the former Papandreou government joined the new premier's Cabinet indicated, however, wide defection from the ranks of Papandreou's followers.

Attempting to thwart formation of a new government, Papandreou had said he would regard any persons joining the new Cabinet as a traitor to the party. He had been appealing for public demonstrations against the new premier.

Athanasiadis Novas quickly banned demonstrations. The Interior Ministry ordered police to crack down on disturbances. There were demonstrations for Papandreou Thursday night but no major outbursts were reported Friday in Athens. In Salonika, however, 2,000 students defied a police ban and demonstrated for Papandreou, calling his successor a "traitor."

After preliminary difficulties, the new premier lined up all 15 Cabinet members within 24 hours, all deputies of the Center Union party, and the king was able to swear in a full Cabinet. Athanasiadis Novas then pledged himself to pursue the Center Union party policies of Papandreou.

The new government lacked the most controversial figures of the previous Cabinet — Papandreou himself and Defense Minister Peter Garoufalias.

The basic issue in the crisis was the King's power to appoint and fire premiers as he saw fit, an issue which crops up frequently in Greek politics. Papandreou is known as a wily political veteran, but this time he apparently was caught by surprise by the young king.

Under the constitution, the new premier must convene Parliament within 15 days and ask for a vote of confidence. The Center Union party has 170 of the 300 Parliament seats. Should it be split and the confidence vote defeated, new national elections would be forced.

Anti-Poverty Pact Denied By Aldermen

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Four West Monroe aldermen, in a joint statement Friday, challenged "indications that we have gone back on a commitment" in refusing to endorse formation of a local corporation for administration of the federal anti-poverty program.

The four — George Wylie, Earl Duncan, A. L. DeLoach and Mrs. Joyce T. Smith — at the same time denied intent to stop the organization's progress in refusing at a meeting last Tuesday to endorse it.

However, they said, "If we were committed by anyone, it was without our knowledge or approval."

Tells of Meetings

The fifth alderman, Charles Anding, who also voted against the endorsement Tuesday, said that he and Mayor J. Allan Norris had attended preliminary meetings with the committee working on the corporation, but had not "and could not" have committed the city's board of aldermen.

Monroe's Brewer Godfrey, acting chairman of the committee working on formation of the corporation, resigned his post this week after the West Monroyans refused to go along with the City of Monroe and the Ouachita Parish Police Jury in endorsement.

The four aldermen Friday said:

"In our opinion, from all news releases, it indicates that all members of the West Monroe City Council had agreed or were committed to go along with this program.

"This statement is in error. This program was never before discussed with us, as a group, in an open meeting, or a private meeting. If we were committed by anyone, it was without our knowledge or approval.

"It was certainly not our intentions to stop the progress of the committee, as we all agree that the people that were heading the formation of such group, are all able, civic-minded business leaders.

"We do resent the statements that have been made indicating that we have gone back on a commitment that we would go along with such a program," the signed statement concluded.

Wylie said Anding was not contacted to sign the statement because "we felt that since he had attended the earlier meetings and agreed to serve on the corporation's board, he probably was for it."

Anding confirmed that he and the mayor attended the meetings and agreed "tentatively" to serve on the board.

"I attended the formative meetings, but never agreed to support the corporation, and hadn't made up my mind or expressed myself one way or the other," he said Friday.

"What was discussed was that the mayor would bring the matter up and let the council decide.

"I regret if Mr. Godfrey interpreted what we said as a commitment," Anding said.

"I've been against the poverty program from the beginning, but like most of the people who agreed to serve, I thought maybe if there had to be one, it should have responsible people to run it."

Mayor Norris also has expressed opposition to the concept of the federal program, coupled with the conviction that, if it is to be, it should have responsible leadership.

Negroes File Here For Poverty Setup

A charter has been filed here by a group of Negroes to form a corporation to participate in the anti-poverty program, the Morning World learned Friday.

Filed July 12th at the clerk's office in the Ouachita Parish courthouse, the charter incorporates the Ouachita Multi-Purpose Community Action Program.

It was filed a day before the West Monroe City Council declined to endorse the Ouachita Parish Economic Development Association backed by the Monroe City Council and Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

A meeting of the association supported by the Monroe council and Police Jury scheduled for Friday was postponed after businessman Brewer Godfrey resigned as acting chairman.

Godfrey said he resigned because the West Monroe council failed to "meet its commitment" to support the association.

Meantime, the charter of the Ouachita Multi-Purpose Community Action Program stated the purpose of the group was to "combat poverty in Ouachita."

Its purpose, the charter said, was for the "promotion and development of economic opportunity."

Signing the charter were Lesley M. Allen Thomas, P. Rayfield Brown III, James L. Thomas, Donald Wade, Rebecca Bose, Mary F. Goins, Patrick H. Robinson, A. G. Facen, Ray O. Wright and A. T. Martin Sr.

Under the regulations of the new anti-poverty program, local programs can be conducted by private, non-profit corporations with the support of a local governing body or a corporation already in the anti-poverty field.

Champ Baker, director of Louisiana's Economic Opportunity, laid the groundwork for the formation of the Ouachita Parish Economic Development Association.

This group planned to select a board of directors of about 30 persons Friday, as well as officers and a director, but the meeting was postponed after Godfrey's resignation.

Baker said Ouachita was eligible for about $125,000 this fiscal year for educational programs. He said the parish would be eligible for about $250,000 next fiscal year.

DR. WILLIAM H. Pickering, director of Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., makes no secret of his feelings as Mariner 4, conceived and built at JLP, continues to transmit to earth pictures of Mars. Dr. Pickering is standing in front of a duplicate of the spacecraft which has won the admiration of the scientific world for its achievement to date. (AP Wirephoto)

Mars Shots Show Little Atmosphere

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Earth's marvelous Mariner 4, now televising a stream of historic closeups of Mars, has found that planet's atmosphere is too thin for any known form of life.

But Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientists who announced the new finding Friday said they will expect to find some kind of life when American vehicles land on Mars in the 1970s.

Mariner 4's first picture, snapped as the 575-pound spacecraft swept past Mars on Wednesday and which was released Thursday night, showed an earth-like desert bordered by smudges which may or may not be vegetation.

Space Suits Needed

Even better pictures are likely among as many as 21 expected to be transmitted by Mariner 4 over the next week or 10 days.

Dr. William H. Pickering, laboratory director, told a news conference that Mars' atmosphere at the surface appears to be about as thin as earth's at an altitude from 90,000 to 100,000 feet.

"Men landing there certainly would need space suits," he said.

"But when you consider the amazing complexity and variety of life forms on earth, you can't exclude the possibility that some other kinds might have evolved on Mars."

The report on Mars' thin blanket of air was made by the laboratory's Dr. A. J. Kliore, chief of a team of scientists who measured the fading of Mariner 4's radio signals as they passed through the planet's atmosphere Wednesday.

From the gradual weakening of signals they figured Mars' atmosphere extends upward no more than eight miles — less than half the height of earth's. They also found it to be only one to two per cent as dense. Previous estimates of the density had ranged up to 10 per cent.

Further study will be required, Pickering said, before it can be determined whether Voyager spacecraft now being designed to land capsules on Mars in the 1970s, will use parachutes or retro-rockets to brake a descent.

Haiti Charges Red Trainees Plan Invasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of Haiti told the Organization of American States on Friday that more than 2,000 Cuban-indoctrinated Communists are poised in the Dominican Republic planning to invade Haiti.

The Haitian government asked the OAS council sitting as an inter-American special conference to investigate the situation and "to take practical measures to put an end to the plot of the Castro Communists."

Fern Baguidy, Haitian ambassador, read to the council a message from the foreign minister of Haiti, Rene Chalmers, giving a report on the situation.

The Haitian report, which came as a surprise to the OAS council, was presented on the eve of a report by a three-nation inter-American mediation team on the Dominican Republic crisis to the council this morning.

The report is expected to reflect progress of the three-nation OAS team in working out a solution to restore peace to the Dominican Republic.

Baguidy told the council: "Concerned about widespread Communist agitation in Latin America and the sly tactics of Castro subversion, my government is resolved in the common good to defend its territorial integrity and the political independence of Haiti against all ideological penetration from extra-continental sources."

The Haitian report said the Communist forces are centered in the area of Bara Hona, Dominican Republic, and that their presence is known to Dominican authorities.

Nation's Northeast Suffers Record Period Of Drought

Federal Help Is Requested By Delaware

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal group charged with finding ways to help the drought-stricken Northeast heard an appeal Friday that the Delaware River basin be declared a disaster area.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes asked the Federal Water Resources Council to make this request of President Johnson as a first step in combatting the ravages of the drought which a report Friday called the worst ever to parch the population-loaded Northeast.

Wants Wells Drilled

Hughes asked also for federal funds for a crash program of well-drilling in the Wharton tract of New Jersey to stabilize the Delaware River flow in the Camden, N.J., areas.

The governor's six-point program also included several suggestions for a longer-range attack on the water shortage problems.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall told newsmen after the council's closed session that the group will give careful consideration to Hughes' program as it shapes recommendations which President Johnson has asked to be submitted to him by next Tuesday.

Before convening the Cabinet-level group, Udall told newsmen he is confident the council will produce "significant recommendations" before the deadline.

But almost as he spoke the Weather Bureau issued a special report which began like this:

"The four-year drought now blanketing the most densely populated area of the nation is the worst — in extent and duration — ever recorded in the Northeast."

The report noted that the latest 30-day forecast indicates a good chance of above-normal rainfall from mid-July to mid-August in the dried-out area. But Dr. Helmut E. Landsberg, director of the bureau's Office of Climatology, said, in effect, this wouldn't be of much help.

Landsberg said normal rains in the next few weeks would help shallow-rooted farm crops but because of the high evaporation rates of mid-summer trees would be little helped. "New England pines may suffer severe damage and may even die if the drought continues much longer," the report added.

The report estimated months or even years of above-average rainfall may be needed to restore normal conditions.

Implying that at least part of the trouble is due to lack of planning, Landsberg said:

"In the Northeast, a drought of this intensity might be expected once in 30 years. It is by no means a permanent alteration in the climate.

"We must learn to conserve the water when it is abundant, in order to have enough when the inevitable drought comes."

Udall said the situation is already serious and he thinks it will get worse.

He added that New York City and some of the other largest cities are facing "the most serious water crisis in terms of municipalities" in the history of the country unless means are devised to help relieve the situation.

Udall refused to give any preview as to what he believed the recommendations will be.

Viet Conflict In Congress Gains Steam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Capitol Hill battle of words over Viet Nam stepped up a notch Friday when a top House Republican accused the Senate Democratic leadership of trying to scuttle bipartisan debate.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin fired the potshot at Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, referring to him by title but not by name.

"Certainly rational debate and reasonable discussion have been abandoned — not by Republicans, but the leaders of the President's majority in the United States Senate," Laird's statement said.

"This fact is inescapable, and the situation it creates is deplorable.

Laird aimed his attack at two speeches Mansfield made in the Senate — June 30 and July 8 — criticizing statements by Laird and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan. They had urged the administration to adopt more aggressive military tactics in Viet Nam.

On the Senate side, there were suggestions that Congress stay in session because of the Vietnamese situation — but for different reasons.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., told the Senate that Congress must stay around as a restraint to President Johnson's conduct of the war and what he described as "a dangerous, desperate group of men in the Pentagon who want a preventive war against Red China."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., also suggested that Congress remain in session. At a hearing on the $45 million defense bill, he said there is no need going home until Congress knows how much money will be needed to meet expanding costs of the Viet Nam fighting.

"I see no use in adjourning this session, going home and then being called back to provide more funds," Stennis said. "I think we should remain here and complete action on a realistic and adequate bill before we go home."

Before Morse spoke out, Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., told the Senate that if Johnson asks for a "fresh mandate" for commitment of men and material to Viet Nam then Congress must examine his course thoroughly.

"We shall look to the President to give us a full account both of the existing situation in Viet Nam and of his administration's aims," Case said. "We, in the Congress, must and will examine his proposals with the utmost care and deliberation."

Laird, in criticizing Mansfield, said Republicans have "proceeded in a reasonable and responsible manner, they have shown a spirit of fairness in standing up for the administration policy against Democratic critics of that policy."

He said Mansfield himself has questioned publicly some actions taken in Southeast Asia. And Laird added: "I suspect that the President may have wished at times that his majority leader had kept to himself such suggestions as the neutralization of all Southeast Asia."

Morse, speaking mostly to a nearly empty chamber but galleries filled with tourists, predicted that if the United States bombs Hanoi or Red China the Soviet Union will come into the war on an all-out basis with attacks on New York, Washington and other U.S. cities.

"With Congress out of session," Morse declared, "it is easier for the warmongers to proceed.

"This Congress owes it to the American people to stay in session to maintain a constant check.

"We cannot justify giving this administration a free hand in running this war with Congress out of session."

Encumbered 707 To Be Substitute For Giant Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency will begin four months of tests Monday on a Boeing 707 jet that has been equipped to behave as clumsily while landing as America's proposed new supersonic transport plane (SST).

The purpose of the tests at Langley Research Center Hampton, Va., will be to gain information about landing characteristics of the giant, fast-flying plane, now in the design stage.

The results will help not only with the design but with future SST flight plans. Because of its great size and weight (450,000 to 500,000 pounds), the SST may handle much like an elephant —even more awkwardly than ordinary jets compared to their propeller-driven ancestors.

The research plane, which arrived at Langley this week, will be capable with the help of a computer of imitating SST landing approaches and its elephantine response to the pilot's controls.

President Johnson recently deferred for an additional 18 months a final decision on whether to build an American SST.

Parish Boys, Girls State 4-H Winners

Sixteen 4-H Club members from Ouachita Parish were named winners in the 1965 4-H Short Course on the L.S.U. campus in Baton Rouge this week, according to Donna M. Moore, associate home demonstration agent, and James F. Kent, associate county agent.

Gloria Simmons from West Monroe High School, was named first place winner in the state in the Sportswear division of the Clothing Contest. Gloria will receive an expense paid trip to New Orleans next April as the award.

Charles Parish, from West Monroe High School, was first place winner in the Gardening Contest and will receive an all expense paid trip to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago this November.

Sharon Parsons, from West Monroe High, was the second place winner in the state Public Speaking Contest and will receive an all expense paid trip to Gulfport, Miss., to give the winning speech to the Federal Land Bank Convention there in August.

Gary Goodling, from Calhoun, tied for first place in Home Ground Beautification. Visits are being made to the two club members homes who were tied to view the work they have done in the Home Ground Beautification program. This winner will also receive an expense paid trip to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Larry Rutledge and Carl Salsbury from West Monroe High and Paul Spillers from Calhoun, comprised the state winning Crops Judging Team from Ouachita. They will receive an expense paid educational trip to Chicago, also.

4-H members who placed in the top ten in their respective contests in the state included Carolyn Taylor from Calhoun, third in the Dairy Foods Program; Janie Futch, from West Monroe, in Rice Cookery Program; Leon Patrick, second in Sheep Shearing; Brenda Davis, Dale Taylor and Steven Green, third place team in Poultry Judging; Sandra Calloway, Sandra Bowling and Tommy Bowling, third place team in Meat Identification; Gloria Simmons and Janie Futch in a duet in the State Talent Show.

Paul Spillers, from Calhoun, was also elected as one of the Northern District Representatives on the State 4-H Executive Committee which is the governing body of the State 4-H organization.

The Ouachita delegation joined some 2000 other 4-H boys and girls on the L. S. U. campus for the Short Course contests this week.

Other 4-H members representing Ouachita in the state contests were Martha Ware in Home Improvement; Jimmy Ware, Jane Everette and Eddie Allen, General Livestock Judging Team; Daryl Rayner, Dairy Judging; Janice Bonnette, Food Preservation; Barbara Graves and Patricia Brownlee, Entomology Demonstration Team; Dewanna Ray, Best dress division of the Clothing contest; Ann Slocum, school dress division of Clothing contest.

Accompanying the group to Baton Rouge were Mrs. Laura Tolbird, 4-H Local Leader; Mrs. Donna Moore, Associate Home Demonstration Agent; Phillip Sims, 4-H Local Leader and James F. Kent, Associate County Agent.

Actor Finds Role Almost Too Real

GALLUP, N.M. (AP) — Hollywood actor Ronald Reagan relieved the perils of a U.S. cavalry officer Friday when he received a saber wound in the right shoulder.

During the filming of a television program near Gallup, in northwest New Mexico, Reagan was portraying a cavalry colonel who had been captured by the Indians.

One scene called for an Indian to threaten Reagan with his own saber.

But the saber slipped and the threat was made good.

Reagan received a superficial wound in his right shoulder, a spokesman said.

McKeithen Seeks Bogalusa Answer

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Gov. John McKeithen said Friday he must have massive support of white and Negro leadership to help ward off outsiders who block efforts to gain racial accord in Bogalusa.

He made the remark in his weekly news conference a few hours after private talks with leaders of the Council for a Better Louisiana on ways to solve the Bogalusa impasse.

"Trouble is coming this way," McKeithen warned. He said everytime efforts nearly succeeded in gaining Negro agreement at Bogalusa, outside agitators moved in and resumed the marches.

"I don't see where federal troops could help us; if they came, they'd probably never leave," he said. "However, they might complain, too, that they couldn't stay on guard there forever."

The governor said he could call out the National Guard but "I don't expect to unless the situation gets worse.

"We've had only one shooting there, a few minor beatings, not half as much violence as at Philadelphia in one week. And we can't guard everyone day and night."

The governor was informed of Thursday's episode in Jonesboro when Associated Press writer Sam Lowery of Baton Rouge was threatened and surrounded by white persons after the Negroes had marched away. Sheriff Newt Low rescued him, then urged him to leave town for safety.

The newsman drove away, pursued by three carloads of youths.

"I'm surprised a reporter was chased out of Jonesboro," said McKeithen, whose home at Columbia is 40 miles to the east. "I, of course, condemn it . . . There must have been a mistake.

"As for myself I want to express my immediate appreciation for the objective manner in which the news media in Louisiana—and in most instances those outside Louisiana — have objectively reported the news on our troubles in this state."

The governor said he will appear on the NBC "Today" show next Monday for an interview.

Commenting on his talks with the CABL leaders McKeithen said:

"I told them that Louisiana was on the verge of obtaining a breakthrough giving it a position of leadership, that the only thing that could interfere is the way we handle in this state the transition required under civil rights legislation.

"As intelligent Louisianians, we dare not sit back without doing everything we can to prevent racial trouble."

McKeithen said he suggested the CABL leaders make recommendations to him to prevent "smaller Bogalusas."

McKeithen said both white and Negro leaders he conferred with this week showed him a desire to help but there were no specific recommendations from either group.

"Someone eventually must make those Negroes understand they have to be qualified to get jobs," he said.

"In my mind, the marchers are completely unreasonable — they don't know what they're marching for."

The governor was rebuffed earlier this week in proposing a 30-day cooling off period.

"We had it settled, until Louis Lomax came on the scene," he continued. "He bragged about having $15,000, but he's found only $5,000 so far and that may help us some."

Apparently, some effort was being drafted to cut back influence of outsiders in the continuing race flareups.

Everything was hush-hush about the conference with the CABL leaders and what they talked about, except McKeithen earlier this week said he would summon prominent white citizens for talks on Bogalusa.

The CABL leaders said recommendations would be provided the governor "within a matter of days."

Talks were similar to the ones McKeithen held Wednesday with a dozen Negro leaders, trying to find ways to prevent Bogalusa touching off unrest elsewhere in the state.

Negro youths continued to march in the tiny, rural northern community of Jonesboro.

Vertrees Young, Bogalusa, onetime papermill executive and CABL president, declined to say whether a biracial committee was discussed.

Bogalusans Ask Doar's Help In Ending Marches

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — Hard-pressed Bogalusa officials Friday urged presidential emissary John Doar to help find a way to end the daily racial demonstrations in this troubled town.

Mayor Jesse Cutrer said Doar was asked specifically "to boil down" the demands of the civil rights leaders and find out exactly what they hope to gain through repeated marches to City Hall.

A federal judge at New Orleans said last week he could see nothing to be gained by further marches. But Dist. U.S. Judge Herbert Christenberry held that the Negroes had a constitutional right to march if they chose.

Doar, assistant U.S. attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, arrived here Thursday night under White House orders to see what could be done to ease the six-month-old racial conflict in this southeast Louisiana papermill town of 23,000.

He plunged immediately into a series of closed-door conferences with city officials and civil rights leaders — meeting with the two sides separately.

Doar declined to comment on his mission, except to say he is here to "see that the laws are complied with and that all people show respect for law and order."

"The matter will be approached in a quiet, reasonable way," he told newsmen.

Cutrer said he would welcome any '"reasonable and honorable solution" by Doar "that will get demonstrators out of the streets and drop tensions."

Several hundred Negroes, joined by a sprinkling of white civil rights workers, marched to City Hall again Friday. This time they took a new route that avoided Columbia Road — the town's principal thoroughfare.

The route change had been ordered by police, who said they no longer had sufficient strength to guard demonstrators through the crowded business district.

Only 90 state highway patrolmen remained on duty here to assist the 36 Bogalusa policemen. Earlier in the week there were 375 state troopers here. The others have gradually been recalled to their home stations.

There were several minor incidents here during the day as tensions continued high.

Police arrested Marvin C. Austin, a 15-year-old Negro, and Manuel Sykes, 51, a white man, on charges of disturbing the peace by fighting outside a grocery supermarket.

A number of fistfights occurred between white hecklers and a group of biracial pickets outside a shopping center. One Negro reportedly was arrested.

The Negroes, under leadership of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League, have been demonstrating for six months. They are demanding an end to segregation of public facilities and job discrimination.

Attorneys Here Get Bar Posts

Four Monroe attorneys have been named to committee assignments by Louisiana State Bar Association President W. D. Cotton of Rayville.

Among the chairmen of standing committees are Jesse D. McDonald, continuing professional education committee, and Thomas M. Hayes Jr., law book publications committee.

Fred Fudickar Jr. was named chairman of the association's legal aid division in the Fifth Congressional District, while Kent Breard was named chairman of a special committee for professional ethics and office management.

State Building Location Here Is Discussed

Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe confirmed Friday that discussion is underway on the local location of a proposed state office building.

Adcock reported on a recent meeting with the Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

"I advised the Chamber of Commerce that all potential locations would be laid before the Chamber of Commerce and any other interested parties," he said.

"The public will have an opportunity to be heard," Adcock added.

The Chamber is interested in having the building located in Monroe. Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard has suggested a site near the city's new civic center. A West Monroe site has been mentioned also, the senator noted.

The building would be part of a state program to save money through ownership of office space, in lieu of leasing.

Local officers would be moved into the building as soon as present leases expire. The building could be completely owned by the state in 10 years, Adcock said.

MEN'S CLUBS TO MEET

The National Federation of Men's Clubs of Louisiana will hold a special meeting at the Progressive Men's Club, Shreveport, Sunday, according to A. F. (Tony) Canizaro, secretary, who has notified all past presidents of the clubs. The group will meet on Cross Lake at the Progressive Men's Club building.

CLUB REPRESENTATIVES

The Monroe Altrusa Club will be represented at the annual convention Sunday through Saturday (July 18-24) by Miss Bernice McCoy, Miss Ann Mickel, Miss Mary Benoit, Mrs. Katie Kramer, Mrs. B. L. Meek and Mrs. H. B. McClendon at the Statler-Hilton Hotel event in Dallas, Tex.

Officials Explain Harriman's Mission

MOSCOW (AP) — W. Averell Harriman's mission to Moscow is to avert misunderstandings between the United States and the Soviet Union on issues — particularly Viet Nam — which might accidentally lead to nuclear confrontation, informed sources suggested Friday.

Harriman, a U.S. ambassador at large, told newsmen the two great powers have a responsibility to the world to make their positions clear to each other.

He explained U.S. positions to Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Thursday in the Kremlin and heard Kosygin outline Soviet attitudes. Harriman said later he had gained "some significant information" which he cabled to President Johnson.

Informants said Friday the three-hour meeting had not been long enough to cover all the subjects adequately and Harriman is tentatively slated to meet Kosygin again next week.

Harriman told newsmen Friday that he thought he would leave Moscow before the end of next week. But the veteran American diplomat, who said on arrival Monday that he was on vacation and might travel outside Moscow, added that he now has so much to do in Moscow that he cannot leave the Soviet capital.

There have been suggestions that Harriman's visit might involve trying to get Viet Nam peace talks moving. But Harriman told newsmen this is "a subject not between us and the Soviets but between North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam." He restated the American position of supporting a settlement between Saigon and Hanoi that satisfied the Saigon government.

Harriman said in an interview in Red Square Friday that the Soviet Union and the United States "always ought to be ready to negotiate and ready to try to settle our differences.

"We must be careful to make our positions clear — that they understand ours and we understand theirs."

Soviet leaders, including Kosygin, "have no desire to become involved in nuclear war," Harriman said. "It's too dangerous not to make every effort to reach understandings and settle issues one by one that come between us.

"As nuclear powers, we owe it not only to ourselves but also to the whole world."

An appointment was arranged for Harriman to meet today with the Soviet minister of agriculture, Vladimir V. Matskevich, who helped him see farming areas on a 1959 visit.

It's the first time the Army has offered two-year Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarships and Cadet Fred J. Vogel Jr., of 1001 K Street, Monroe, is one of the 600 college students selected. The awards are being made to outstanding ROTC sutdents who will enter their junior year of college this fall.

Vogel was nominated for the scholarship by his professor of military science and college officials on the basis of his outstanding work at Northeast.

Negro Drowns In River Mishap

The unidentified body of a Negro man was recovered from the Ouachita River Friday night at Duty, just northwest of Enterprise.

The Catahoula Parish Sheriff department said the man was backing a truck loaded with brick onto the Duty ferry when the accident occurred. The vehicle reportedly lurched back, broke through the chains at the end of the ferry, and plunged into the river. Witnesses said the man was able to get out of the truck, but could not make it to shore.

Dragging operations were begun early Friday afternoon. The body and truck were recovered at about 8:30 p.m.

Katzenbach's Stand

Although Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach, as a protege of the late President John F. Kennedy and of former Attorney General Robert Kennedy, is too much on the "liberal" side for our taste, he moved up a few notches in our estimation when he gave unqualified support to former Mississippi Governor James P. Coleman's nomination to a federal judgeship.

This does not necessarily mean we uphold every stand taken by Coleman. Although, the ultra-liberals and violent integrationists have used their influence in an attempt to block confirmation of President Johnson's nomination of Coleman, this seems to have principally been because Coleman is a Mississippian and the liberals and integrationists have turned their hate on Mississippi and Alabama because the people of those two states have stood staunchly for what they believe to be their rights. For a deep - south politician, and particularly for a Mississippian, to be as "moderate" as is Coleman on the matter of integration has been unusual.

Katzenbach deserves credit chiefly for not holding the rabid hatred for the South and for Mississippi that has been displayed by some of the Northern "liberals." He is to be commended for observing Coleman's situation in its true light.

In testimony before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, Katzenbach said of Coleman's nomination to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals:

"It is easy for Northerners to note some of Governor Coleman's statements on segregation and to leap to the conclusion that he should not, therefore, be appointed to a federal judgeship.

"To support segregation in Mississippi during James P. Coleman's political career was merely a commonplace political platitude; to support moderation, to support law and order and to counsel obedience to court decisions — these must be regarded as deliberate acts of conscience and devotion to principle."

Actually, opposition to Coleman seemed to come more from so-called liberal and radical whites than from Negro integrationists. During the hearing in which Katzenbach testified, 12 pickets, across the street, paraded with signs urging that Johnson withdraw the nomination. All of the pickets were white.

It was announced at the outset of that hearing that the American Bar Association had approved Coleman as well qualified for the post.

Coleman sat beside Katzenbach at that hearing.

The Fifth Circuit Court to which Coleman was nominated is the appeals court for cases from most of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and the Panama Canal Zone. It considers litigation on such matters as civil rights. Aside from a general Northern antagonism toward the South and toward Mississippi, this was said to be the principal reason for opposition by civil rights leaders.

Although Katzenbach would not be likely, in any case, to oppose a nomination by President Johnson, since he is in the President's cabinet, he has shown more regard, in some instances, for the Constitution of the United States than has been exhibited by the ultra-liberals or, for that matter, by a majority of the members of the supreme Court itself. Regard for the Constitution is one thing that is badly needed now.

Biomedical Engineering

After a two - year study of trends in biomedical engineering, Corplan Associates concluded that it will be one of the seven new industries surpassing the billion dollar mark in the 1970s.

Although work that could be properly classed as biomedical has been going on for centuries, it has been only since World War II, which ended in 1945, scarcely 20 years ago, that this work has developed as a clearly defined field of education and research.

As evidence of some of the things engineering has accomplished in medical research, the following facts are cited:

In Cleveland, Ohio, a patient paralyzed from the neck down, grasps an electric razor and shaves himself.

Physicians in Evanston, Ill., are "looking" inside the human body with sound waves to see details invisible to X-rays.

Methods of freezing blood instantly without impairment are being developed in Philadelphia, Pa.

This accomplishment causes speculation on whether instant freezing of live human bodies without damage, so they may be kept in preservation as long as desired, and then revived, may be accomplished. If this were possible, people with cancer and other incurable ailments might be kept in deep - freeze until definite cures for these ailments have been found.

Drs. David Fleming, Robert Plonsey and James Reswick, who direct various aspects of the program at Case Institute of Technology, stated that biomedical engineering will be one of the seven major branches of engineering education by the mid - 1970s.

Of extraordinary interest is the case of the man who is paralyzed from his neck down but is able to shave himself with an electric razor. Basically, there is a powered splint or frame which can support a paralyzed hand to open and grasp an object at the will of the patient. The amazing thing is that the patient can turn on and control the electric switches by moving his eyebrows.

Formal courses in biomedical engineering at both graduate and undergraduate levels are available at Case Institute and some other institutions.

Thus we find that not only are patients greatly helped by the introduction of engineering into medical practice but that an extraordinary new field of endeavor is offered for those desiring to become engineers. This new field is of great value to the suffering people and to those who make its advantages available.

'Flexible' Price Policy

New freedom in price flexibility is expected by theaters and play houses as a result of the scheduled removal of the so-called luxury or excise taxes and other revenue code changes. With those taxes on, many of the managements thought it was just too much trouble to try to figure the tax every time the price of admission was changed, so they just didn't change the prices often.

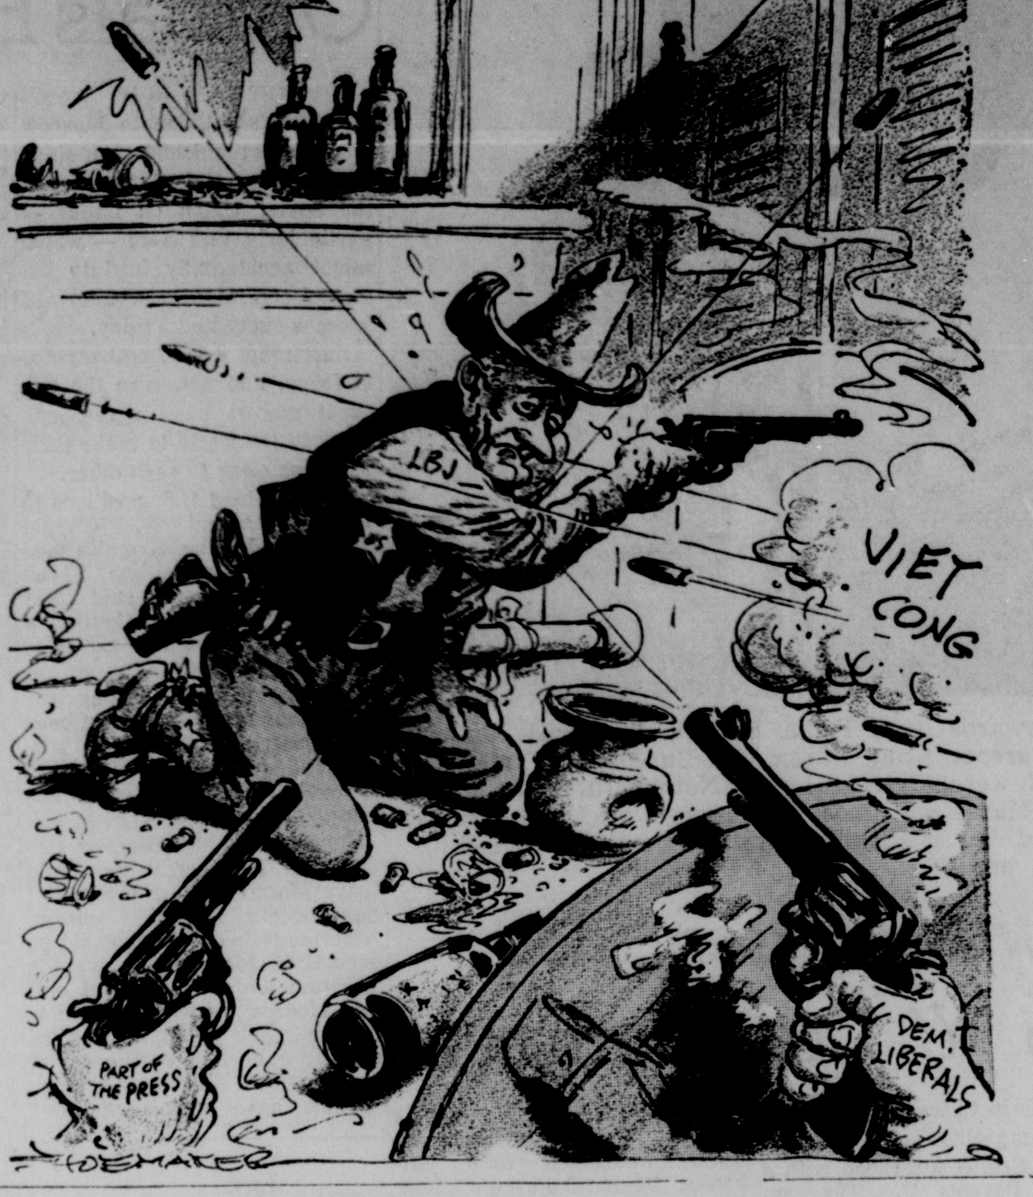
After next winter, prices for theater tickets may move up and down with the demand. How much you pay for a ticket may depend in part on where you buy it. This is true of shares of stock and suits of clothes, so the question was asked, "Why not tickets, too?"

John F. Wharton, director of the Legitimate Theater Industry Exploratory Commission in New York, said happily, "What this means is that it's a start toward the theater's being able to run its own business, which it hasn't been able to do for the last 40 years."

One thought that has been lurking a little in the mind of John Q. Public regarding removal of the excise tax is whether prices he must pay will drop as much as the tax amounted to. Now he's wondering whether those prices will "flex" upward more than downward.

Anyhow, we often take note in these columns of fresh departures from a free economy, so we are glad now to comment for once on an increase in freedom for operations motivated by supply and demand.

"Hey! Ain't There No Good Guys?"



ROBERT ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Reserves, Guards Coming Up

Will Go Into Service In Few Weeks

AT LEAST 25,000 Army and Air Force reservists and National Guardsmen will definitely be called to active duty within a few weeks.

Also, President Johnson will ask Congress for another $1.5 billion for soaring military costs arising from the Viet Nam conflict. Several months ago, at his urgent request, Congress voted $700 million for this purpose.

Only unresolved question on the impending troop call-up is how to do it.

The President and Democratic congressional leaders differ on that.

The President favors issuing an executive order declaring a national emergency and summoning the desired personnel and units to the colors. Under the law he has authority to do that.

The congressional leaders are advising a joint House-Senate resolution. They are not challenging the President's power to proceed by executive order; that is readily conceded. But the lawmakers contend his position would be greatly strengthened by obtaining direct congressional approval of this far-reaching action.

This backstage divergence of view was discussed at length at the President's weekly conference with the congressional leaders. He explained his preference for an executive order by expressing concern that a joint resolution would precipitate a stormy and protracted debate over Viet Nam policy, with militant opponents resorting to delaying tactics and political critics demanding even more drastic measures.

After the White House conference, most of the congressional leaders were privately of the opinion that the President will proclaim the troop call-up in an executive order.

The ready - reserve, from which some 25,000 selected personnel and units will be reactivated, totals 1,355,600, consisting of the following:

Army reserve	711,000
National Guard	378,000
Air Force reserve	191,600
Air National Guard	75,000

There is also the stand-by reserve, which will not initially be affected. Totaling 385,678, it is made up of 246,000 Army reserves and 139,678 Air Force reserves.

REASONS BEHIND THE CALL-UP — The President told the congressional leaders that "three urgent factors" were behind his "reluctant decision" to summon reservists and National Guardsmen to active duty:

—Conclusive intelligence information of a big build-up of regular North Viet Nam forces in South Viet Nam. Three regular North Viet Nam divisions already are fighting there, and at least two others are enroute through Laos. Intelligence also has reported that five other divisions are preparing for operations in South Viet Nam. North Viet Nam has 22 divisions, numbering around 10,000 each.

—Joint Chiefs of Staff warning that South Viet Nam's military forces are too depleted, widely dispersed and inadequately equipped and led to resist this massive Communist build-up. A Red victory can be averted only by speedy, large-scale U. S. combat reinforcements.

—These reinforcements will seriously deplete the regular forces (strategic reserve) in the U.S.; from which they are being drawn. The Joint Chiefs flatly oppose obtaining replacements by cutting U.S. forces in South Korea (two divisions) or Europe (five divisions). Therefore, they strongly advised a call-up or ready-reserves to offset Viet Nam requirements.

Most of these troops, the President indicated, will replace elements sent to Viet Nam. However, some, particularly specialists and Air Force units, will be assigned there.

On the Joint Chiefs' recommendation, the President has approved a U.S. build-up in Viet Nam to 150,000 by October 1.

This total will exceed 170,000 by the end of the year if no agreement is reached.

The congressional leaders understand that a full South Korean division will shortly be sent to South Viet Nam. Also that Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines will increase their contingents.

Representative Melvin Price, D-Ill., a ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, is telling colleagues that as a result of the intensifying Viet Nam crisis, Defense Secretary McNamara's controversial plan to merge the reserves and National Guard is "dead as a doornail."

An Armed Services subcommittee, headed by Representative F. Edward Hebert, D-La., is continuing to hold hearings on the proposal, but they are getting nowhere.

SPARKS — One freshman Democratic congressman from the Middle West is ruefully discovering that President Johnson does not lightly brook straying from the administration path. The new legislator voted with the opposition on an important measure, and the very next day found he no longer could get visiting constituents included in the special early morning tours of the White House. That's a very popular privilege of members of Congress, so by his being cut off he is apparently being taught a pointed lesson . . . . . That joint U.S.-Puerto Rico commission to study the future status of the Caribbean island is running into big money. Originally it was to cost $430,000. The latest figure is $930,000. According to Representative Leo O'Brien, D-N.Y., the reason is "we found ourselves with an inquiry which was much greater in depth than we had originally planned." Puerto Rico is paying half the cost.

PETER J. STEINCROHN

Natural Reducing Medicine Needed

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: About overweight—have the research boys ever thought about putting the cart at the other end of the horse and developing some sort of metabolism regulating medication suitable for use by the person who doesn't have a thyroid problem?

Most people who are overweight are glandularly normal, but through faulty eating habits have managed to amass 20 to 30 pounds more than they need. These are the folks told by their doctors to take off some of that weight—use your will power, and these are also the folks least able to follow that advice, or they wouldn't have the problem in the first place.

Poor eating habits are acquired in childhood, and for the average guy, childhood is a time of blissful security and unrationed love. Ergo, in many cases eating is equated with security and love — especially eating rich foods "like Mother used to make."

IN THIS WORLD of madness and uncertainty people are turning to all sorts of emotional crutches in a desperate attempt to find something to hold on to. Supposing our fat friends are suddenly deprived of the emotional satisfaction of eating without psychologically rooting out the cause of it (prohibitively expensive, usually). Where do they turn? Alcohol, maybe, or drugs? Or just nervous breakdowns?

Diet re-education is a lovely idea, and just dandy for raising the coming generation, but try to tell the 40-year-old to change his lifelong habits and security patterns and see how far you get.

Another aspect of the situation is the grossly unfair condition which prevails where Miss A can eat enough food for a regiment three times a day and remain a dainty 110 pounds, where Miss B agonizingly counts every bite, eats about one-fifth of Miss A's intake, and gains a pound a week. How about that? Clearly, nature is playing dirty pool.

COULDN'T SOME inexpensive sort of pill or injection be found which would kind of set the body ""thermostat" at the ideal weight for each particular type of build, regardless of caloric intake? Is science anywhere near this point, or is it even trying along these lines?—Miss C. B. (California)

Comment: For a more complete answer to a proper philosophy of weight reduction, send for my booklet, "Watch Your Diet Because Fat Can Kill You." Write to me in care of this paper, enclosing 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I have reprinted Miss C. V.'s letter, not only because it is so well-written and bespeaks of an intelligent interest in the weight problem, but because it raises an important question. What is the medical profession doing about it?

Although I know of no tremendous sums being spent (as on cancer and heart disease research) there are many islands of scientific investigation harboring experiments dealing with the obesity problem.

Is there a weight-control center in the brain? What has metabolism to do with obesity?

Is there a pill or injection (as suggested by Miss C. V.) which may allow you and me to get outside of a 10-course dinner, both conscience-free and weight-free? Time will tell.

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer readers' letters. Nevertheless, most questions are answered in later columns.

Johnson Object Of False Claims

PRESIDENT JOHNSON is getting it in the neck. Every President of course does; but there are criticisms and criticisms, and what is going the rounds these days about LBJ is all the way. I have in mind, for instance, a confidential report, internationally distributed, by an immensely influential English publication which all but reports that the President of the United States is loco. He is described, for instance, as having approached the point where he simply doesn't know what is, and what isn't, true: which, if it were so, would make him certifiably insane. He is described as having grown so irritable as to lose sight of the irreducible dimensions of social intercourse. And he is said to have become incontinently emotional, so much so as to embarrass, and deeply worry, his very closest associates.

Believable?

Of course not. There is no doubt that the President has weaknesses of which the charges in the English publication are a hideous exaggeration. He is vain; he is sensitive to criticism; and he does, occasionally, let fly at his detractors. But these attributes, which after all are hardly unusual in political eminences, are being abnormalized by two groups of people. The Communist press seizes on them for the obvious reasons.

U.S. NEWS REPORTS that the new Communist line on Johnson is that he is "ill, both physically and mentally." Any weakness is any public figure who inconveniences the Communist movement is instantly exaggerated; and if, per impossible, no weakness exists, the Communists will of course invent one, no matter how wildly implausible. The non-Communist left, although it has a weak ear for Communist propaganda, and not infrequently finds itself acting as an echo chamber for it, ventilates its own vilifications of men in public office who take drastic steps in contradiction of their view of sanity in foreign affairs. And sanity in foreign affairs consists (can you name an exception in the postwar decades?) in yielding wherever the Communists set up pressure points. Whether in Greece, or China, or Hungary, or Spain, or Katanga, or the Lebanon, or Quemoy, or Cuba, or — Viet Nam.

A year ago, when the machinery of the left was in high gear to elect Mr. Johnson as President of the United States in order to dispose of the singular threat posed by the candidacy of Senator Goldwater, it was more or less agreed that the foibles of Senator Johnson — his ambition, his intensity, his megalomania — were, when all is said and done, no more than the incandescence of man afire with concern for righteousness. His criticisms of other people and other ideas, it was said, were motivated by his intense attachment to social truths. His impatience with his staff and associates was passed off as altogether understandable in a man on the march to a great society. His arm-twisting of Congress, when the arm-twisting was done in behalf of, say, a civil rights bill, was an inspiriting example of the Executive Seizing the Initiative and Exercising His Powers of Leadership. His arm-twisting of Congress, of the Secretary of State, and of the Pentagon, for support for his opposition to a Communist take-over in South Viet Nam or in the Dominican Republic is, of course, something altogether different. It is a sign of a psychic derangement.

MALICE IS NOT necessarily the motive of Mr. Johnson's detractors. Some people consider it a charitable explanation for another man's dissent from their own point of view to say of him that he is not, poor thing, actually quite all there. The editors of the English journal, and those others who are whispering the same things about Lyndon Johnson, are so utterly convinced that it is nothing short of madness to resist the Viet Cong in Southeast Asia, or to land the Marines in the Dominican Republic, that they look rather wistfully to extra-rational motivations for such conduct. No man in his right mind, they are saying in effect, could risk a great war with the Red Chinese, or resort to dollar imperialism in Latin America: therefore does it not follow, as neatly as B follows A, that anyone who so reasons, has lost his faculty for reasoning?

I do not deny that Lyndon Johnson's ego corresponds to his fearful appetite to run our lives for us, to arrange for our education, for our old age, for our poor, for our rich, for our culture, for our labor union policy, for our droughts, for our floods, for our bridges and for our subways; and conservatives in this country have every reason in the world to project from that vanity a true threat to the survival of our local institutions.

BARRY GOLDWATER

Free Help From Doctor Not New

DOCTORS ARE opposed to government health plans because they don't want poor people to have "free" medical attention.

Businessmen are opposed to government spending because they don't want poor people to have anything "free."

These are just two of the silly myths spawned by a generation of welfarism.

Let's start with the doctors. They have been giving free treatments to Americans since the first frontier sawbones patched up the first penniless pioneer with an Apache quill in his jeans.

Doctors have instituted health insurance plans, established free clinics and invested their money into hospitals. Some doctors get rich just as most men do who work as hard.

But it is an idiotic lapse of logic to say that doctors oppose medical care as such because they oppose the government's plan for medical care.

Medical care is their business, and the government's plans for medical care will not rob them of fees. Their opposition to the government's plan goes quite beyond that.

THE OPPOSITION is generally based on the fear that this is just the beginning, that a disastrously regimented form of socialized medicine is the next step. No form of socialized medicine so far has been able to avoid the progress-stopping stultification that red tape inevitably brings with it. American doctors, who have brought us the highest level of health care in the world, are rightfully concerned by this red tape specter.

Secondly, opposition comes of another experience. What happens when medical care costs are added heavily to a Social Security system? France tried it, and their entire system is on the verge of bankruptcy as a result.

And doctors are not alone in criticizing the fiscal folly of the government's medical program.

None of the opposition, however, has anything to do with wanting to deprive anyone of needed care. To the contrary, the opposition is based upon realization that red tape can only strangle such an effort and that, in the long run, the saddest victims will be the very people the scheme sets out to help. Certain politicians will be the only ones who benefit

THE MYTH ABOUT cold-hearted businessmen is every bit as silly. These men depend upon widely circulated incomes to keep business itself going. No one in business is helped by keeping people poor. If the income of everyone in the country could be doubled, business would double. It's as simple as that.

Many businessmen oppose government "giving" because every single time it "gives" it is the direct result of having first "got." The money it gives to one person is taken from another. There is no such thing as a free lunch — someone always pays.

Income in the business world is distributed on the basis of how hard and how well you work or build or plan. But when a politician passes out money the basis may be for any reason at all, including partisan advantage. No matter what the reason, however, the giving of money is a poor substitute for the earning of money.

Money earned in a productive job is true business expansion. Money given away is nothing but a drain on available resources.

Businessmen, as doctors, aren't against government schemes because they don't want to help the aged or the poor. It's exactly the reverse. They want to help cure poverty, as the doctors want to cure disease, with the creation of the conditions of genuine good health, not with temporary patent medicines.

Plans Are Set For Institute At Grambling

GRAMBLING (Special) — Final arrangements have been completed for the special physical geography and earth science institute which convenes at Grambling College Monday through Friday.

Based on early estimates the institute will draw over 60 participants. The program is scheduled for the Science Hall auditorium.

Charles F. Gritzner, state coordinator for the National Council for Geographic Education, will deliver the keynote address at 9 a.m. on opening day. The Louisiana State University geography and anthropology instructor will speak on the topic "What Is Geography and its Role in Louisiana Schools."

Kenneth Mott, supervisor of social studies, State Department of Education, will aid in the project jointly sponsored by the LEA and Grambling.

Grambling previously announced the staff for the institute headed by Dr. Lee Perkins, professor of geography. Other staff members are Lathardus Goggins, assistant geography professor: Dr. Robert W. Hunter, Dean, division of education; Dr. Charles A. Berry, head, department of secondary education; Dr. A. P. Kennedy, head, department of physical sciences and Thomas Odom, assistant professor of physical sciences.

The city installed meters for the first time early this month at three places.

Honors Given To Boy Scouts At Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) — Johnny Adams was advanced to the rank of Eagle Scout in ceremonies at a Winnsboro Boy Scout Troop 53 Honor Court at the Scout Hut here Thursday night.

Other scouts receiving advancements were: Life — David McLemore and Bill Scriber; Star — Alton Davis, Rudy McIntyre, Jack Merrill and Danny Price; First class — Glenn Adams; Second class — Wayne Bowlin and Ralph Davis.

Merit badges were awarded to scouts Glenn Adams, Johnny Adams, Ricky Baldwin, Tommy Baldwin, Alton Davis, Ralph Davis, Shelby Graves, Sam Lee, Rudy McIntyre, Jimmy Mays, Jack Merrill, David McLemore, Tom Moore, David Price, Bill Scriber and Billy Snyder.

Making the presentations were Dr. Vernon Baldwin, scoutmaster, and C. L. Moore Jr., Herbert Davis, Roy Taylor and Joe Dante.

Eight members of Winnsboro Boy Scout Troop 53 are included in the 33 Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley Council scheduled to leave Sunday for a nearly three-week stay at the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

They are Bill Scriber, Tommy Baldwin, Tom Moore, Johnny Adams, Danny Price, Jack Merrill, Glenn Adams and Jimmy Mays.

Love, Narrows Torment Whale On Perilous Trip

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Love and Seymour Narrows were hazards Friday night in the slow voyage south by the expedition bringing Namu the killer whale along the inner flank of Vancouver Island to a new home in Seattle aquarium.

A big, bold bull whale tried to steal away Namu's cow and two calves, which have been following the penned papa.

Squealing in a jealous rage at the gigolo bull, 22-foot-long Namu cut his dorsal fin and tail flues as he tried to smash out of his 40x60-foot corral of steel and logs.

The would-be family wrecker tormented the captive killer whale, surfacing nearby, but swam away at last. Whether he was snubbed by Mrs. Namu, awed by Namu's threats or frightened by the small tugboat which chased him was undetermined by the weary, worried expeditionary force.

Early this morning the big tug Iver Foss will nose into turbulent Seymour Narrows with Namu's pen trailing at the end of a 1,200-foot towline.

The rock-rimmed strait, 1½ miles wide and 220 miles north of Seattle, is known by seamen as a saltwater toboggan slide. Pacific Ocean tides churn through the narrows four times a day at speeds up to 18 miles an hour. More than 100 seamen and more than 30 ships have died in Seymour Narrows.

The expedition must make the two-mile passage while the tide is slack. Once safely through, the flotilla will be in the comparatively calm waters of the Strait of Georgia.

Namu was captured three weeks ago when he blundered into fishing nets at Namu, B.C. The expedition is expected to reach Seattle about July 23 and a rousing reception is planned — although salmon fishermen here are registering discontent.

JOHNNY ADAMS pins Eagle Scout pin on his mother, Mrs. C. R. Adams Jr., after he was advanced to the rank of Eagle Scout at a Troop 53 Honor Court in the Scout Hut at Winnsboro Thursday night. Looking on are his scoutmaster, Dr. Vernon Baldwin and his father, C. R. Adams Jr. (Photo by Otis Hassell)

Reports Readied For Tuesday At Delhi Meeting

DELHI (Special) — Three local men will make reports to the Lions Club Tuesday at the Delhi Community Center.

Mayor Roy Snider will speak to members of the club on the progress being made on the construction of the new municipal airport.

Walter Trawick, executive of the Terrick Company, will report on the new grain elevator being built, which eventually be a $250,000 project.

L. D. "Boots" Thurman, Director of Summer Recreation, will make a report to the club on the overall recreation program.

CANCEL CLIMB

ZERMATT, Switzerland (UPI) —Snow and fog Friday forced cancellation of a mass climb of the Matterhorn.

Eighty-nine climbers scheduled to meet with a similar number of Alpinists from the Italian side of the mountain decided to call off the ascent because of the dangerous conditions.

Domestic Cotton Closes Session Mostly Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—Domestic cotton futures closed 50 cents a bale lower to $4.25 higher Friday.

Trading centered in distant October and December futures which are the first of 1966 crop deliveries. Prices spurted up as much as $4.50 a bale there, with the close slightly under the best levels.

The upturn was credited to views that the new cotton bill, proposed by the House Agriculture Committee, could result in a crop below requirements and push prices above the loan level.

Under the bill, farmers would have cut back their cotton plantings at least 15 per cent from their basic allotments in order to obtain any federal benefits. The loan in 1966 would drop down to 21 cents a pound.

Distant October and December futures traded today at 24 cents a pound. The House is expected to take up the bill sometime in August.

No trading developed in world cotton futures, with prices unchanged to 50 cents a bale lower on the basis of final bids.

Market Sinks Into Summer Doldrums

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sank into the summer doldrums Friday and put on a mixed showing with trading slack.

Usual pre-weekend caution was cited for the do-nothing session.

The first hour was fairly lively, with some good-sized blocks trading hands. Although the price pattern was irregular all day, there was a slight dip in late morning, followed by a smallish recovery and, finally, by some additional softness.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a trifling loss of .55 at 880.43.

Market statistics were just as uninspiring. Of 1,329 issues traded, 542 declined and 501 advanced. New highs and lows for the year were equal at 14 each.

The backdrop of business and economic news was better than the performance of the market. Personal income was reported to have risen to another record in June. President Johnson was reported to have committed himself to policies next year which would be aimed at prolonging the business boom. The parade of second quarter earnings reports remained favorable.

The weather was hot in New York, however, and Wall Streeters seemed more interested in getting a head start on their weekends than in spurring the market into a sharp move either way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks took a slight loss of .2 at 170.3 with industrials off .2, rails off .2 and utilities off .2.

Among the 15 most active stocks, eight declined, three advanced and four were unchanged.

As the session began, the news was out that Pan American Sulphur had been given an offer for its assets by United Nuclear Corp. It rose to most-active issue on 158,100 shares but closed unchanged at 17½.

Demand was so strong for Pan American Sulphur at the start that its opening was delayed. Its first trade was on a block of 40,000 shares, up 1⅜ at 18⅞. This gain began to be trimmed almost immediately, however, and by the close there was none of it left.

Eastern Air Lines was fourth most active and lost a point as a secondary offering of 419,825 shares of its stock was made.

Among other active issues, Fairchild Camera resumed its latest uptrend by rising 1¼ and Xerox lost a point despite its news of record profits.

McKesson & Robbins was about a point lower in early trading as the Street attitude seemed to have cooled considerably since the firm's management advised shareholders to turn down a tender offer from Glen Alden. The drug stock recovered, however, ending with a rise of ⅛ as fifth most active.

Some big blocks accounted for the presence of several other stocks on the list of volume leaders and these trades apparently reflected random changes in big investment portfolios.

King-Seeley advanced 1¼ following news of a dividend hike and an extra dividend.

Philadelphia & Reading rose ⅜ as it said its offer to purchase shares of Lone Star Steel would expire July 30 but might be extended.

After the market close came a report that American Home Products has resumed merger talks with Ekco Products. Ekco was up 1⅜ while American Home lost ⅞.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher. Volume was 980,000 shares. New Idria Mining was off ¼ at 3⅛ in active trading. National Video "A" gained 1⅛. Syntex lost ½ and Noramco gained ⅜.

Corporate bonds were irregularly lower in light trading. U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly higher.

U. N. Will Debate Dominican Point

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council was summoned Friday night to meet next Tuesday for further debate on the situation in the Dominican Republic.

Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov, council president for July, called the meeting for that time after consulting the 10 other council members who refused agreement for a meeting Saturday morning.

Grain Futures Prices Firm On Board Of Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices became mostly firm as buying on both speculative and commercial accounts spread to nearly all contracts on the Board of Trade.

The weakness was in old crop soybeans and distant corn months, all under moderate heavy liquidation. July soybeans slid almost 5 cents a bushel but attracted a little better support through mid-session.

Profit cashing weakened corn in spots but commercial demand imparted firmness to the July and September contracts. The virtual absence of hedge selling in wheat encouraged continued demand for establishment of long positions.

Soybeans closed 4¾ cents a bushel lower to ¾ higher, July $2.83¼-83; new standard grade wheat ½ to ⅞ higher, July $1.43¼-⅜; corn ¼ higher to ½ lower, July $1.29½-⅜; oats unchanged to ½ higher, July 66⅜-½ cents; rye 1⅞ to 3 cents higher, July $1.14.

Name Change Announced By Oil, Gas Firm

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — The California Company, a major producer and marketer of crude oil and natural gas, has been designated a division of Chevron Oil Company under a corporate re-organization involving various members of the Chevron group of companies. Prior to the name change, Calco had been a division of California Oil Company.

Calco President Kenneth H. Shaffer made the announcement, saying the move is designed to associate the New Orleans-based firm more closely with its internationally known trademark, and with other companies of the Chevron group. Otherwise, the Calco President added, the action represents a change in name only. The three angle-strips of the "Chevron" hallmark identifies service stations in 35 states, including neighboring Mississippi and Texas.

"In the past several years, the Chevron group has extensively broadened its scope in all phases of the petroleum business," Shaffer explained. "This has made it increasingly desirable to extend the use of our major trademark in order to provide additional public identification for all Chevron operations."

The California Company's operating territory extends over a wide geographical area defined generally as the eastern half of the U. S. Presently, however, the firm's major activities are concentrated in Louisiana and Mississippi, and offshore in the Gulf of Mexico. "The change to Chevron Oil Company re-emphasizes that all facets of our wide-spread operations are backed by the extensive research and engineering resources available to all members of the Chevron group," Shaffer declared.

FAA Employee Here Promoted

Benjamin F. Bryan, 19-year employee at the Monroe Flight Service Station of the Federal Aviation Agency, has been promoted to a supervisory position at its Tulsa, Okla., station, according to William Thompson, chief of the flight service.

Bryan, his wife and son reside at 806 N. McGuire Ave.

"Over the years, Benny's voice has become familiar to many pilots flying the airways and to many local residents who have called for weather reports. Tulsa's gain is truly Monroe's loss," said Thompson.

Dennis Ralston Heads U.S. Davis Cup Team

Cliff Richey Is Omitted From Squad

CHICAGO (AP) — A six - man United States Davis Cup sqaud, headed by nationally top - ranked Dennis Ralston, was named Friday for the American Zone finals to be played in Dallas, Tex., July 31-Aug. 2.

The U.S. squad, designated by non-playing Cup Capt. George MacCall of Los Angeles at the current National Clay Courts Tournament, will meet the winner of the Mexico-New Zealand zone showdown starting today in Mexico City.

MacCall named Ralston and Arthur Ashe Jr., Richmond, Va., to play No. 1 and 2 singles respectively at Dallas. Presumably, they will face Mexico's Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox, favored to pace their country to victory over New Zealand.

Hamilton Richardson, veteran from Dallas, and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., were picked to round out the likely playing quartet; and Clark Graebner of Evanston and Frank Froehling of Miami, Fla., were named alternates.

MacCall's selections ignored the hottest player on the American tennis scene, 18-year-old Cliff Richey of Dallas, who had been tabbed a potential No. 2 singles cupper behind Ralston.

MacCall had a squabble with the Richey family during the clay courts meet this week over the role Cliff's father, George Richey—a Dallas tennis pro—should play in his son's preparation for Cup play.

It turned out to be a standoff, with MacCall deciding to pass over Cliff as his likely No. 2 singles Cup choice and Cliff saying he would not play for MacCall without close guidance by his father.

MacCall said he will announce the four men who actually will play at Dallas sometime next week.

MacCall said that at the moment his Cup doubles team choice included Ralston and Richardson, but there was a possibility Riessen could replace Ralston on the tandem.

This is the sixth straight year Ralston has been named to the Davis Cup squad. The slim star from Bakersfield, Calif., who will be 23 on July 27, teamed with Chuck McKinley to win the famed trophy away from Australia in 1963, but the Aussies regained the cup last year from the same McKinley-Ralston team.

McKinley, ranked second nationally, has retired from major competition.

Richardson is returning to Davis Cup play after an absence of six years. The 31-year-old Phi Beta Kappa from Tulane and former Rhodes Scholar has a perfect record in 10 previous zone series—16-0 in singles, 2-0 in doubles.

Richardson, top-ranked in the country in 1956 and 1958, is in the securities business. He currently ranks No. 7.

Ashe, only Negro ever to make the U.S. Davis Cup team, is on the squad for the third straight year. The UCLA ace is ranked No. 3 in the country and is national collegiate champion.

Riessen has been on four previous Cup teams but has been played sparingly.

• • •

EVEN THOUGH they manage a smile here, everything is not coming up rosey for the Richey family of Dallas, Tex. Because of a disagreement poppa George (center) had with Davis Cup captain George MacCall about who was running the show, Cliff, 18, was not named to the Davis squad. Federal Appeals Court Affirms Butts' Payoff

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A federal appeals court affirmed Friday the $460,000 libel judgment awarded Wally Butts as the result of a controversial Saturday Evening Post story about college football fixes.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, divided two-to-one, held the Curtis Publishing Co. permitted publication of the story "with reckless disregard of whether the article was false or not."

Butts, former coach and athletic director at the University of Georgia, filed suit as a result of the March 23, 1963, article entitled, "The Story of a College Football Fox." A subtitle read, "A Shocking Report of How Wally Butts and Bear Bryant rigged a game last fall."

A Federal District Court jury in Georgia found Butts had been libeled and awarded him $3.07 million in damages. Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan subsequently cut the amount to $60,000 in general and $400,000 in punitive damages.

Alabama football Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant sued Curtis for $10 million because of the Post story. He later accepted a $300,000 settlement and the suit never went to trial.

Butts sued because a Post article said he gave Georgia football secrets to Bryant. Butts was then Georgia's athletic director. Alabama won 35-0.

In rejecting Curtis' appeal, the 5th circuit majority termed the suit "no ordinary libel case."

"The publication of the article by the Post, in the face of several specific appeals that it refrain from doing so," the majority said, "was part and parcel of a general policy of callousness, which recognized from the start that Butts' career would be ruined.

"The trial judge's appraisal of the evidence, with which we are in complete accord, was that it was sufficiently strong to justify the jury in concluding that what the Post did was done with reckless disregard of whether the article was false or not.

"We think that Curtis has had its day in court."

The majority opinion was signed by Circuit Judge John R. Brown of Houston, Tex., and Dist. Judge Adrian Spears of San Antonio, Tex.

Circuit Judge Richard T. Rives of Montgomery, Ala., dissented. He said the District Court erred in not granting Curtis a new trial in the light of the New York Times decision handed down six weeks after the Butts case judgment.

The Post said the Times decision set stricter rulings on malice that ruled out most of Butts' libel judgment.

Clay Courts Meet

Belkin, Richey Will Play In Semifinals

CHICAGO (AP) — Unseeded Mike Belkin, a University of Miami sophomore, and young Cliff Richey, center of a Davis Cup squabble, meet today in the semfinals of the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament.

Belkin defeated the No. 2 seed, Arthur Ashe Jr., Richmond, Va., 0-6, 7-5, 6-0, 0-6, 8-6 Friday. Richey, 18, of Dallas, Tex., eliminated Ron Holmberg, Highland Falls, N.Y., 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3 .

Ashe is third ranked nationally.

Both matches extended beyond a total of six hours.

It was a particularly sweet victory for eighth-seeded Richey, who was tabbed to be No. 2 Davis Cupper int he American Zone finals at Dallas July 31-Aug. 2 until a dispute with non-playing cup capt. George MacCall of Los Angeles.

MacCall objected to Cliff's insistence that his father, George Richey, a Dallas tennis pro, continue close guidance of the youngster in preparation for Cup play.

As a result, Richey was omitted from the six-player cup squad named Friday by MacCall.

Also Friday, Cliff's older sister, Nancy Richey, 22, continued her bid for a successful clay courts title defense in the women's singles.

Williams Wins Junior Title, Downs Mintz

Jim Williams defeated Steve Mintz, 2-1, Friday afternoon in the finals of the championship flight to win the Bayou DeSiard Country Club Junior Golf Tournament.

Byron Goyne trimmed Tim Ernst, 6-5, and Dick Touchstone beat Ewing Brown, 2-1, to reach the finals of the consolation flight.

Goyne then downed Touchstone, 4-3, to capture consolation honors.

In the championship semifinals Mintz advanced by stopping Louis Masur, 2-1, and Williams edged Andy Mintz, 4-1.

Cleveland Edges Boston 4-3 On Brown's Homer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Larry Brown smashed a leadoff home run in the 10th inning, giving the Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over Boston Friday night.

Brown connected on a 2-1 pitch from Dick Radatz, who suffered his seventh defeat against four victories. The homer sailed into the left field seats.

Sixth-inning home runs by Fred Whitfield and Leon Wagner had given the Indians a 3-2 lead, but Boston tied it in the ninth against Sam McDowell on singles by Tony Conigliaro and Bob Tillman sandwiched around Lee Thomas' double.

Frank Malzone scored Boston's first run on Thomas' fourth-inning single and drove in the second with a single in the fifth.

Cleveland then pushed into the lead in the sixth. Wagner hit his 16th homer, Rocky Colavito walked and Whitfield connected for his second homer in two nights against Boston. Both blows came off Bill Monbouquette.

Braves Register Win Over Bucs With Home Runs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wade Blasingame scattered 10 hits and Felipe Alou and Rico Carty powered home runs as the Milwaukee Braves whacked the slumping Pittsburgh Pirates 12-2 Friday night.

Blasingame lost his chance to become the first Braves' pitcher to throw a shutout this season when Roberto Clemente drilled a two-run single in the seventh inning.

The Braves provided Blasingame, now 10-7, with a three run cushion in the first inning as they jumped on losing pitcher Bob Veale for three runs, two scoring on an infield out.

After Alou opened the scoring with his 14th home run, Hank Aaron reached first on Bob Bailey's error. Gene Oliver singled, and Joe Torre was purposely walked, loading the bases.

Carty then hit a shot off Veale's glove that Bill Mazeroski grabbed and threw to first for the out. Aaron scored on the play, and Oliver came home behind him when Torre allowed himself to be caught in a rundown between first and second base.

Harmon Sets Races Under New Lights

A capacity crowd and an overflowing entry list is expected tonight at Harmon Raceway when the local drag center goes under the lights for the first time.

After having been closed for the past two weeks while the lights were being installed, Harmon officials promise one of their top cards of the season tonight under the $25,000 beams.

Already committed to appear on the big program are over twelve AA-fuel dragsters. Super stockers, factory expirementals, modified productions and the full range of stockers are scheduled to appear on the weekend program.

Another big announcement also came Friday.

Dale Ham, regional director of the national hot rod association, announced Friday in Monroe that the Harmon Memorial Raceway has been selected for the 1965 regional world series championships.

They will be held August 14. This outstanding national event will bring hundreds of racers and thousands of enthusiasts from all over the nation to Monroe for the series.

Cardinals Erupt Thanks To Mets' Big Errors, 8-5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis, taking advantage of errors by Al Jackson and Roy McMillan, erupted for six runs in the sixth inning and defeated the New York Mets 8-5 Friday night.

Trailing 4-2 going into the sixth, the Cardinals tied it on a walk to Dick Groat and singles by Phil Gagliano, Curt Flood and Bill White.

Then, with runners at first and second, Mike Shannon bunted, and Jackson fired wildly to third, allowing Flood to score the tie-breaking run.

After Gordon Richardson relieved Jackson and filled the bases by walking Bob Uecker, Jerry Buchek grounded to McMillan. The shortstop threw low to the plate, and White and Shannon raced home.

Reds Top Phils With Ellis

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, staked to two unearned runs in the first inning Friday night, breezed to a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia behind the five-hit pitching of Sammy Ellis.

Ellis had a shutout until Johnny Callison lined a homer off the upper centerfield wall in the ninth.

Philadelphia first baseman Dick Stuart let in two runs in the first when, with two out, he dropped a throw and Pete Rose and Vada Pinson scampered across.

The Reds knocked out Phillies starter Jim Bunning with three runs in the seventh, stopping his victory streak at five. Ellis brought his record to 13-4.

The victory enabled the Reds to hold onto first place in the National League.

Koufax Wins 16th With Four-Hit Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sterling Sandy Koufax pitched a four-hitter for his 16th victory — high in the majors — and stroked two key singles, sparking the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs Friday night.

The victory was the 10th straight for the 29-year-old lefthander, who now has completed 15 of his 22 starts.

He also became the first pitcher in the majors to pass the 200-strikeout mark, fanning nine for a total of 204. He now has struck out 200 or more for five straight years, a National League record.

Koufax, who has lost only three games, contributed to all three Dodger runs, putting two in scoring position and scoring the other.

With two out in the second inning, Jim Lefebvre singled, moved to second on a single by Koufax and scored as Ernie Banks let Maury Wills' grounder get by him for an error. Jim Gilliam then singled home Koufax.

The Dodgers scored in the sixth as Lefebvre drew a two-out walk, went to second on another Koufax single and raced home on Wills' single.

The Cubs didn't get a runner to third.

Lopez Picks Up Slack As Yanks Topple Senators

NEW YORK (AP) — Hector Lopez, inserted in the New York line-up for injured Tommy Tresh, drove in three runs Friday night and led the struggling Yankees to a 9-5 victory over hapless Washington.

Lopez drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the Yanks' important five-run third and got another with a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Lopez, who has played more than many of the so-called Yankee regulars, took right field when Tresh was forced to the sidelines with a knee he twisted a week ago.

Ray Barker, another sub who made the starting line-up when Joe Pepitone was benched for light hitting, had two singles and an RBI.

The winning run, however, was Bobby Richardson's solo homer in the fourth.

The Yanks got their big third on doubles by Clete Boyer and Al Downing, singles by Phil Linz, Lopez, Elston Howard and Barker, an error and a walk.

'Ham Shoot' Is Set At Pine Hills Club

The Pine Hills Gun Club will hold its first "ham shoot" Sunday at the gun range, Bancroft Camp, on Puckett Lake. The shoot begins at 1:30 p.m. followed by hamburgers and soft drinks for all members and their guests.

Hams will be awarded to all winners and first runners up in both the skeet and trap shoots.

The Pittsburgh Pirates did well at home against Houston's Colts (now Astros) in 1964. They won eight of the nine played at Forbes Field.

Robinson's Blast Gives White Sox Triumph By 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Floyd Robinson, who earlier tied the game with a two-run double, tripled home the winning run in the 11th inning, boosting the Chicago White Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Friday night.

Dean Chance, pitching in relief for the Angels, started the inning by walking Don Buford. Tom McCraw forced Buford, but Robinson followed with a triple to right field.

The Angels took a 2-0 lead in the fourth when Joe Adcock homered with two out after Jim Fregosi had walked.

Out Of Bounds

Game Of The Hour: Golf

With Stuart Hill

The name of this column takes on an additional signifiance now that its writer has returned to the game of golf. In the three weeks since my swap from tennis to golf the out of bounds signs have accounted, along with water holes, for numerous additional strokes — and quite a few lost balls.

I'll admit that aspirations of the PGA tour have entered my mind — in the past. All such silly notions have flown into obscurity in the conscience mind.

There are two main reasons for taking up golf again: 1) a rank amateur asked to be shown the principals of the game of tennis. That amateur is Keith Prince, Sports Editor of this newspaper. Well, I did and Monroe lost one of its best (potential) tennis players because the pupil defeated his teacher. So, the teacher figured it would be best to move to another sport where he would be classified as an amateur; and 2) the Louisiana Sports Writers's annual convention comes up at the end of this month in New Orleans. Most of my fellow scribes play golf and I am just as gregarious as the next sports writer—if not more so. Besides, the tourney is an annual event and there is no annual tennis tournament. As a matter of fact, I'm not sure of the number of fellow writers in this state who know how to play, or are able to play tennis.

Both major statements mentioned in the above paragraph have lessor, but more clarifying background, according to my outline.

To the fact that I was beaten by an outsider, add that my tennis shoes were wearing out; and to the fact that I would like to play in the annual tourney add that I am justifying for my being beaten at tennis. As a matter of fact, you might say that this whole column is just justification and should be submitted to Dr. L. M. McKneely of Northeast's English department for re-classification.

At any rate, golf is the game of the hour and I'll not volunteer to teach anyone to play. Of course, I'll be open to suggestions for self improvement.

There are a lot of different feelings about the game of golf. A Twin Cities medical doctor calls it, "a fool's game," but he still plays. Some say they are playing for the frustrating relaxation and others declare exercise is the main idea. So far I've found it a quick method of getting disgusted and tired.

It's about the only game where you feel complacent when your opponent slaps one out of bounds when you have a good lie or find yourself secretly rooting for that duff — on the part of your match adversary and not partner.

From the standpoint of frustration, the game is like see-sawing. A hard - fought par or bird can turn on the pride (see) while counting up that triple bogey can send you to the depths of doldroms (saw).

Now for a quick look at goings ons around the local courses:

HIGHLAND PARK

The Ninth Annual Four - Ball at Highland grabs the spotlight today. Hugh Britt expanded the field and still had people wanting to play. Top contention for the championship flight comes from a pair of golfing brothers, Wayne and Terry Peddy. They had a 63 for qualification and they say it's hard to beat a lion in his lair. Highland's like home to that pair.

Several other club events are on tap at Highland, but right now the four-ball casts an overpowering shadow.

CHARMINGDALE

At Charmingdale, Carl Gallo can now attract some of the flying-golfers set. The Charmingdale air strip has been put on aviation charts and Gallo reports that a few officials of the Powder Puff derby, which recently passed through Monroe, stopped in for a round.

A Twin Cities Open Invitational of 36 holes is on tap for Aug. 28-29 and a special pro-am is coming up in September at a date to be announced. Paul Hahn, trick golfer, is expected to give an exhibition at the affair and the Club championship will be in September.

BAYOU DESIARD

Bayou DeSiard club members Billy Coenen and Chip Lyman are reported by Winnie Cole as definite entries in the 18th Annual Greenwood Invitational over in Mississippi for the weekend of 23-25. Bob Travis of Jackson, Miss., is defending title holder.

Clayton Cole will return to Greenville, Miss., Aug. 20-22 to defend his title in the sixth annual Greenville invite. Brother Henry, a member of LSU's golf squad will be in the field also.

Raybourn Doege, assistant pro at Bayou DeSiard, has scheduled to enter a pro-am affair in Hattiesburg, Miss., Thursday and Friday.

In club action, young Jim Williams Jr., whose father is rather handy with the sticks also, won the club's junior title yesterday with a 2-1 win over Steve Mintz and the Bayou DeSiard Young-Star Tournament comes up this Tuesday through Friday.

An 18-hole mixed scotch foursomes club tournament is on tap tomorrow begining at 1:30 p.m.

MUNICIPAL

The Jaycees' Junior golf tournament has the show for the first of the week at Municipal. Local youngsters will be shooting for a trip to the state tournament Monday through Wednesday. By the way, the entry fee for the Jaycee go-go is $3 and not $5 as earlier reported.

Muny pro Johnny Myers finished about 19th in the Louisiana Open last week in Baton Rouge but finished among the low 10 Louisiana pros and earned a spot in the Louisiana Cup Matches. The 10 top pros will play against the 10 top amateurs this fall in the cup matches at Timberlane Country Club in Gretna.

The amateurs won last year.

Dick Schofield Singles Giants Past Astros 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dick Schofield's seventh-inning single brought in the winning run as the San Francisco Giants edged the Houston Astros 2-1 Friday night.

Schofield's base hit scored Len Gabrielson with the Giants' second run of the inning. It gave the victory to right-hander Bob Shaw, who surrendered only two hits in seven innings, one of them Joe Morgan's sixth-inning homer.

Jim Hart opened the seventh with a single off loser Bob Bruce and went to second on Gabrielson's third single of the game.

Both runners advanced on Hal Lanier's sacrifice. Hart came across with the first San Francisco run on an infield out by Bob Burda, pinchhitting for Shaw.

The victory gave Shaw an 8-6 record.

Baltimore Taps Detroit For 2-1 Defeat In 11th

DETROIT (AP) — Brooks Robinson led off the 11th inning with a double and came around on two wild pitches by Larry Sherry, giving Baltimore a 2-1 victory over Detroit Friday night.

The start of the game was delayed an hour and 50 minutes because of rain.

The Orioles chased Detroit starter Denny McLain in the eighth inning when they loaded the bases with one away. But Orlando Pena came in and got Brooks Robinson to hit into an inning-ending double play.

McLain blanked the Orioles on two singles through the first six innings, but Boog Powell homered leading off the seventh for a 1-1 tie. It was Powell's first home run since May 15.

Jerry Lumpe's two-out double in the third inning scored Bill Freehan, who had singled, for the first Detroit run.

ARNE DOKKA of Studio City, Calif. (left) and Leo Zamperdo of Warren, Ohio will vie for the title today in the National Public Links Championship at Pittsburgh's North Park Golf Course. Dokka, 21, defeated Jim Schroder of San Francisco 4-3 and Zampedro, 24, defeated Al Bailey of Cedar Rapids, Iowa 2-1, in Friday's semifinals. (AP Wirephoto)

Zampedro, Dokka Will Meet In Public Links Golf Finals

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leo Zampedro, husky, 24-year-old fireman from Warren, Ohio, and Arne Dokka, 21-year-old native of Norway, won their 36-hole semifinal matches Friday in the 40th National Public Links Golf championship.

They meet today in the 36-hole final over the par 36-35—71 North Park Golf Course.

"Tomorrow's another day. I'm not making any predictions," said Zampedro after eliminating 19-year-old Al Bailey of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 2 and 1.

Dokka, of Studio City, Calif., who was eliminated in the semifinals last year, defeated Jim Schroder of San Francisco, 4 and 3.

Bailey, who lines his putts on his hands and knees, blew his chance to even the match with Zampedro when he three-putted from the apron of the 13th green.

"That was the key shot. I knew it was going to end then," he said.

Bailey and Zampedro had been even when they broke for lunch after the first 18.

On the 32nd hole, Bailey needed a 20-footer to even the match. He lined it up lying on his stomach and aiming his putter like a cue stick. He missed the putt to go 2-down.

He won the 33rd when Zampedro, a former fullback for Colorado State, three putted but lost the 34th. Zampedro closed out the match when they halved the next hole with par 4s.

Dokka, Far West Intercollegiate champ and only one of the four to have played in a national tournament, was 2-up on Schroder, a studious, bespectacled marketing student, when they broke for lunch.

Schroder faltered badly on the last four holes of the morning round, three putting two greens and pulling his drives and irons. He came back strong in the afternoon, but Dokka was even stronger.

The slender six-footer was even par for the 14 holes in the afternoon and one over for the day. Schroder, four over after 18, played the next nine holes in one under par. He lost the 28th with a bogie to go 3-down, but won the 29th with a four foot birdie putt.

They halved the next hole, but Dokka won the next two with a birdie and a par to win.

4-Ball Honors Won By Peddy Brothers

A pair of brothers, Wayne and Terry Peddy shot a nine-under-par 63 early in the week and it stood numerous qualifying rounds to take medalist honors in the Ninth Annual Highland Park Four-Ball Tournament.

With the first 18 holes slated for play today. several top local golfers are in the running for championship honors. The winning team last year, from Alexandria, is not on hand to defend the title.

The Peddy brothers meet another pair of related players in the first round, Pat and Mickey Netherton.

Hoyt Highfill and Gene Adams are paired against Clayton and Henry Cole. Bob Hardquist and Ray Mulhearn go against Guy DuPriest and Tony Danna and Dooley Haddad and Larry Tilley meet Dan Miller and Ricky Highland.

Sunday calls for 36 holes and the wrapup of the event which has fielded 56 teams and 112 players.

Dowing Gray Has Southern Amateur Lead After Hot 70

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Dowing Gray matched the day's temperature with a hot two-under-par 70 Friday to take over the lead in the Southern Amateur Golf Championships with a 54-hole total of 215.

Gray, 26, a life insurance agent from Pensacola, Fla., had three birdies and one bogie in his round under a blazing sun on the No. 2 championship course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

One stroke off the pace at 216 were David Boyd, insurance broker of Atlanta, Ga., and Charlie Smith, a Gastonia, N.C., auto dealer. Smith shot a 72 and Boyd a 74.

Boyd, 24, missed a chance to take the lead by double bogeying the 18th hole after knocking his second shot into a trap. He came out short, chipped strong and two putted.

Young John Dement of Meridian, Miss., was in third place with 218 after firing a one-under 71 which included five birdies, one bogey and a double bogey.

Tied at 219, four shots away, were Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., and Jim Ward of Jamestown, N.C.

Jack Cummings of Tuscaloosa, Ala., second round leader, ballooned to a 79 for a 220 in fifth place.

Defending champion Dale Morey of High Point, N.C., withdrew because of illness. He became sick Thursday night apparently from a virus and practiced briefly Friday but became so weak he pulled out.

Gray, low amateur in this years Masters tournament at Augusta, Ga., with 294, was runner-up in the 1962 U.S. Amateur played on theNo. 2 Pinehurst course. His 70 Friday matched his best round here in 1962.

"The course here has been good to me," Gray said. Asked how he compared it with Augusta National, he replied, "I think it's a little easier to drive the ball at Augusta. They are both just great courses. I wouldn't pick one over the three."

Three players were bracketed at 221 — John Bird, Shreveport, La.; Ward Wettlaufer, Atlanta, and Dr. Bob Watson, Charlotte, N.C.

Testimony In Brown's Case Is Continuing

CLEVELAND (AP) — Testimony in the trial of Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown turned from sex to money Friday as court adjourned for the weekend.

Brenda Ayres, the 18-year-old girl who has accused Brown of assault and battery, spent most of her third day on the witness stand saying, "No" to questions by Norman S. Minor, Brown's attorney.

Minor's questions were directed toward an alleged telephone conversation June 21 between Miss Ayres and Paula White, her 16-year-old girl friend who introduced her to the 29-year-old All-Pro fullback.

Minor asked:

Q. Did you tell Paula that, "Mother told me it would be necessary for me to tell some lies. That if they let Jim Brown do all the talking, he would clear himself, and I would look bad, and we wouldn't have a chance in a civil suit to get the money."

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you say to her "Paula, you help me, and you'll get something out of it."

A. Mr. Minor, I did not talk to Paula on that day so I couldn't have said those things.

Minor finished his cross examination in late afternoon. Asst. Police Prosecutor Albert Corsi said the girl may be called again Monday for re-direct examination. After that, Corsi said, he probably will call the girl's mother, Mrs. Barbara Ayres.

Miss Ayres had previously denied she said that Brown would give $1,000 to have her leave him alone. Friday she said Brown gave her $60 to visit a sick uncle in Dayton, Ohio, but testified it was "a gift."

Brown, married and father of three children, reportedly makes $50,000 as a player and has added income from endorsements. He also is employed off season in the public relations department of a soft drink company.

During her three-day intensive cross examination, Miss Ayres has testified that Brown threatened her if she didn't accompany him to an East Side motel room the night of June 19.

In the room, the slender, 108-pound teen-ager said Brown slapped her on the face, hip and stomach and forced her to commit an unnatural sex act. She said he twice forced her to have sexual relations with him.

She said she had been intimate with Brown on various occasions since she was introduced to him May 12.

Eighth District Dixie Playoffs To Be In Jena

JENA (Special) — Dixie boys baseball will mark a first in LaSalle Parish Monday when the Dixie Youth Eighth District baseball playoffs begin at 5 p.m.

Teams entered include all-star groups from Alexandria American league, Alexandria National league, Deville, Pineville, Rapides Ward 10 (Tioga), LaSalle Ward 2 and Jena.

Play in the 12 through 14 age league begins at 5 p.m. Monday with Alexandria American playing Deville.

At 6:30 p.m. Alexandria National will meet Pineville and at 8 p.m. Rapides Ward 10 (Tioga) plays Jena.

LaSalle Ward 2 begins action Tuesday night at 8 p.m. in a game with the Jena - Ward 10 winner. Games are also slated at 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and three games beginning at these times will be played Wednesday.

Two games are scheduled Thursday at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

A single game is on tap Friday at 7:30 p.m. It will be the finals unless there is a rainout during the tournament or the finalists come from the losers bracket. In either case, additional games may be scheduled Saturday night if needed.

Dixie Baseball Tourney To Be Held At Ruston

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston will play host to the Dixie Youth Baseball Tourney today with action taking place at the new baseball plant.

The tournament will feature two teams from Ruston, Union Parish All-Stars, and El Dorado All-Stars.

Action in the double elimination tourney will begin with Ruston's Dixie Youth East Team playing the Union Parish All-Stars at 6:30, followed by a clash pitting Ruston's Dixie West squad against the El Dorado team at 8:30.

The baseball plant is located on the Jonesboro Highway across from the Ruston Golf Club. The plant has a concession stand located in the center of the four baseball diamonds.

No games will be played Sunday and Monday night, but the tourney will continue through next week.

Kansas City Romps By Minnesota, 10-2

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — The Kansas City A's rushed in four runs after two were out in the first inning Friday night and went on to a 10-2 romp over the Minnesota Twins.

The A's added three-run clusters in the third and sixth innings while Diego Segui checked the American League-leading Twins on seven hits.

Mudcat Grant, the Minnesota starter who lost his third game in 12 decisions, retired the first two men he faced.

But Dick Green walked and Ken Harrelson, John Blanchard, Tom Reynolds and Mike Hershberger followed with singles, scoring three runs. After a walk to Nelson Mathews, Segui singled to finish Grant.

Three hits and relief pitcher Jerry Fosnow's throwing error led to three KC tallies in the third. A walk, two hits, including Mathews' triple, and an error led to three more in the sixth.

Devlin Keeps Lead In Canadian Open

TORONTO (AP)—Bruce Devlin of Australia, weakening in the third round of the Canadian Open Golf Championship, shot a one-over-par 71 Friday for a 205 total that was good enough to keep him in the lead in the $100,000 tournament by two strokes.

An eager quartet was crowding him with 207. It was made up of Arnold Palmer, Gene Littler of Las Vegas, Jack Nicklaus, the Masters champion, and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn.

Palmer made the strongest comeback of those now challenging the Australian, who plays out of Hilton Head Island, S.C.

Palmer, trailing Devlin by five strokes starting the field round, banged out a 68, his best round of the tournament.

Littler, starting at 138, shot a 69.

Nicklaus, only one stroke behind Devlin at the halfway mark, had trouble down the back nine, taking a two-over-par 37, to finish with 72, still two over.

Rudolph, who started four strokes away from Devlin, matched Littler's 69.

Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., and Randy Glover of Florence, S.C., were alone at 208. Hebert shot a three-under-par 67 and Glover 69.

Gary Player, the South African winner of the U.S. Open, turned in a three-under-par 67 — his best round of the tournament — for a score of 209.

Retired Railroad Employee Given Special Award

A recently retired employee of the Illinois Central Railroad, Paul H. Twiner, Sr., was given a special award of appreciation Friday night by Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation for his long years of service at the rail facility at Olin's West Monroe paper mill.

Twiner was one of four retired Illinois Central employees honored at a barbecue sponsored by the railroad's Employees' Service Club at the Commercial Solvents camp near Sterlington.

He was presented with a check and a special plaque by George J. (Sonny) Burroughs, rail clerk with Olin's Railroad Department. The plaque expresses "appreciation for service with employees of the Railroad Department of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation." It was signed by a number of Olin executives and employees acquainted with Twiner over the years.

The railroad serves the Olin mill with incoming shipments of pulpwood, chemicals and other raw materials, and outgoing shipments of finished products.

Twiner, former switch engine foreman, retired last April after 46 years of service. Active in local civic and religious affairs, he is an active member of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe, where he heads the Sunday School's extension department which ministers to shut-ins. He and Mrs. Twiner reside at 814 Crosley, West Monroe.

Other retired Illinois Central employees honored Friday night included Jeff Parker, a former engineer; Leo Lobiza, a former mechanical foreman; and Pete Woodard, a former switch man.

Work Scheduled On Clearing At Lake Claiborne

HOMER (Special) — With a favorable price given for the clearance of timber from 1,772 acres in Lake Claiborne for $114,719 by E. B. Smith, Springhill contractor, work is slated to begin shortly.

Seven or eight clearing machines are expected to be used in the work. The contractor will have 150 calendar days to complete the work.

Two stretches of the White Lightning road will have to be raised above the flood level of the lake. The highway department has been requested to build two bridges to provide a minimum of eight feet of headroom in order to provide complete access to all parts of the lake.

Boat launching strips will be provided at these two places on the highway also.

A committee of the Homer Chamber of Commerce has made plans to promote the lake, including advertising in national magazines.

Whetstone Says Educators Have Speech Freedom

W. E. Whetstone of Monroe, president of the Louisiana Board of Education, said Friday that educators have freedom of speech under the board's administration.

The remark came after Sen. Fred Eagan of New Orleans, chairman of a legislative committee on higher education, in a statement in the Crescent City, spoke of "silence or reluctance to speak on the part of individual educators."

"There has never been any restriction of the freedom of speech of any personnel in our state — not in the 2½ years that I've served on the board," Whetstone said.

Eagan, whose committee is doing a study on higher education, said little could be accomplished without a free exchange of information and ideas. However, Whetstone said Eagan did not invite the board to a Baton Rouge meeting this week between the committee, the legislative council and the Public Affairs Research Council.

On the free speech issue, Whetstone added, "We have never been aware of any restrictions on college people to exercise and voice their opinions."

Eagan said that silence by a college or university administrator could be due to loyalty to the existing system for fear of the charge of insubordination.

Apple Tree Wins Bout With Steer

SPRING VALLEY, Ill. (AP) — A steer had a tussle with an apple tree on the farm of Louis Budnick, and the apple tree won.

Budnick said the animal, an Aberdeen Angus about nine months old, worked his head into a large knothole in the trunk of the tree. But he could not withdraw it.

The farmer said he had no idea how long the steer stood patiently before he noticed its plight Wednesday night. He chopped the hole larger, and the steer trotted away.

The World for WOMEN

Monroe Morning World · Saturday, July 17, 1965

Parties Honor Carol Cole, John Nies

The approaching marriage of Miss Carol Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winnie Cole, and John Davison Nies, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nies of Denver, Colorado, was the inspiration for several parties held this past week. The couple will exchange vows August 6, in First Presbyterian Church of Monroe.

Sherry Party

Mrs. Landry Ducote and Mrs. F. E. Polen honored Miss Cole with a sherry party in the Polen home at 2719 Point Drive Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. George Snellings III greeted the guests in the entrance hall, which was decorated with a massive arrangement of magnolia in a large brass container. Miss Cole, Mrs. Ducote and Mrs. Polen composed the receiving line.

On the refreshment table an old English silver footed bowl filled with white stock, carnations and gladioli provided the centerpiece. Mrs. John Jordon, Mrs. Stephen Nichols and Mrs. Guy Luno Jr., alternated at the table. Misses Mary Ellen Polen, Laura Lou Polen and Mrs. Stanley Mintz served.

The honoree wore a two-piece beige silk suit with black and brown diamond shaped inserts edging the bottom of the blouse. Mrs. Ducote chose to wear a coral silk sheath, and Mrs. Polen wore a white linen ensemble.

Approximately 50 guests called between 4 and 6 p.m.

Informal Supper

An informal bridge supper was an event Thursday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Jack McBee and Miss Jacque McBee entertained Miss Cole and Mr. Nies, in the McBee's home on Whitney Drive.

Tables covered with checked cloths and centered by wine bottles with red candles gave a French theme to the party.

Following the dinner the couples were invited to play bridge. For the party, the bride-elect wore a yellow, orange and white plaid cotton shirtwaist dress. Miss McBee wore a white pleated skirt with a navy blue sailor blouse accented by a red and white striped tie. Mrs. McBee wore a blue and gray ensemble.

Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings III, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brockman, Conroy Hines, Roland Jackson, Miss Ellen Ferguson, Rayburn Doegi, and Miss Natalie McDuff.

Winners of the bridge game were Roland Jackson, Mrs. Brockman and George Snellings.

Bridge Party

On Wednesday, July 14, Miss Cole was entertained with a dessert bridge and Mah Jongg party in the home of Mrs. Theo Terzia, 2700 South Grand. Mrs. Dickie Culpepper was hostess for the occasion.

Garden flowers, pink snapdragons, gladioli, magnolia blossoms and foliage formed the arrangements used at various vantage points throughout the house.

For this occasion, Miss Cole wore a white sharkskin skirt and white cotton blouse trimmed in navy, with matching accessories. Mrs. Culpepper was wearing a white shift with black trim accented by wooden buttons.

Sharing the event with Miss Cole were Mrs. George Snellings III, Mrs. Ralph Brockman, Miss Ellen Ferguson, Miss Jacque McBee, Mrs. Carolyn King, Miss Natalie McDuff, Mrs. Owen Owen, Mrs. Jim Wroten, Miss Marretta Heidenriech, Mrs. Guy Luno Jr., Miss Jan Adcock and Miss Charlene Bogle.

Bridal Shower Honors Katherine Robinson

On Saturday, July 10, between the hours of three and five, Miss Katherine Hope Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Iven Quitman Robinson of Winnsboro, was honored at a bridal tea shower in the home of Mrs. J. W. McLemore, Jr., on Newman Street, in Winnsboro. Miss Robinson will be married on August 14, in First Methodist Church of Winnsboro to Henry Stanley Roane Jr., of Ruston. Mr. Roane is the son of Dr. Stanley Roane, of Ruston, and the late Mrs. Margaret Cupp Roane.

Mrs. McLemore, wearing a blue and olive linen dress, greeted the guests and presented them to Miss Robinson, who was attired in a white pique and lace shift, featuring a scoop neckline and blue ribbon trim. She wore a yellow cymbidium orchid, a gift from the hostesses. Mrs. Robinson mother of the bride-elect, wearing a white linen dress with floral applique in blue, introduced the guests to Mrs. Vernon Calvin Cupp, grandmother of Mr. Roane. Mrs. Cupp wore a shirtwaist model of beige silk organza. Their corsages were carnations in shades blending with their dresses. Miss Faith Robinson, sister of the honoree, presided at the bride's book, which was placed on a table beside a miniature bride doll holding a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses with white ribbon streamers.

The dining table was overlaid with an imported cutwork linen cloth over pink with wide satin streamers running the length and breadth of the table. A crystal and silver epergne held pink radiance and white florabunda roses which overflowed on to a circlet of white tulle interspersed with pink sweetheart roses. A matching crystal bowl held the pink punch, which was served alternately by the co-hostesses; Mrs. J. E. Godfrey, Mrs. Edwin D. Walter, Mrs. W. E. Marioneaux, Mrs. James D. Mayes, Mrs. A. L. Rhodes, Mrs. S. E. Lee Jr., and Mrs. Nolan C. Moore.

The buffet in the dining area was enhanced by a five-branched candelabra holding pink tapers, which burned over circlets of tulle adorned by single pink rose buds. An arrangement of pink radiance roses in a footed silver bowl was placed at the opposite end of the buffet. Assisting with the courtesies of serving were the Misses Sandra Butler, Sue Mays, Alice Gowan, Sandra Rhodes and Charlotte Luno, and Mrs. Russell Faulk.

In the family room, permanent arrangements of pink roses and lily of the valley were placed at vantage points. Miss Julia Roane, sister of the future groom invited guests into this area to see the gifts displayed there. The hostesses' gift to Miss Robinson was a set of turquoise club aluminum.

During the appointed hours, approximately one hundred guests came to share the occasion.

EGGPLANT

When you are stuffing an eggplant, halve the vegetable lengthwise, then cut out the pulp in chunks leaving a shell that is about ¼-inch thick. The pulp can be cooked until soft and mixed with bread crumbs, milk, eggs, plus seasonings and liquid for the filling. The stuffed eggplant halves will need about ¾ hour baking in a moderate oven.

Visitors From Mexico City Entertained

Blue hydrangeas for the table centerpiece with appointments of blue china were features of the brunch given by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwartz when they entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Sevier of Mexico City on Saturday morning.

Other guests were Lieut. John Sevier of Fort Polk, Mr. and Mrs. Travis McNeel and Mr. and Mrs. Lamar T. Loe.

Patio Party

Mr. and Mrs. Sevier were named guests of honor by Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Yerger at a patio party in their home on Ella Street, Tallulah.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sevier, Mr. and Mrs. Travis McNeel, Dr. and Mrs. Joe W. Yerger, Maxwell Yerger Jr., of New Orleans, Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Elliott, also of New Orleans, Mrs. R. N. Ware, Mrs. J. E. Neill, Mr. and Mrs. William Parkerson, Mrs. Carrie Ruth Davis and Mrs. Georgia Morelock.

SKIING STYLES

With skiing becoming virtually an all-year activity, trends for the big winter season of 1965-1966 are already being spotted at such places as Vail, Colorado, where international team races recently took place.

Ski wear is still sleeking down, with the competitive stripe sweater and pants, the trim team parkas and hat fads the leading looks. Dark colors are replacing those "fashion" colors and prints, which were worn chiefly by novices and snow bunnies in any case.

Dear Abby

He Who Is Without Sin Cast First Stone

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that my husband will not let me visit my sister. She lives in Nevada. She was married once, had a child, and then had the marriage annulled. She married again, briefly, but it didn't work out, so she got a divorce. She is now living with a man who has a legal separation from his wife. He can't get a divorce because of religious reasons. He treats my sister very well and is a wonderful father to her son. She has many good qualities, and I love her. My husband doesn't even want me to talk to her on the phone Abby, I'm her only sister and she has no one else to confide in. My husband is afraid she will be a bad influence on me. He is a very religious man and his word is law. What should I do?

ONLY SISTER

DEAR SISTER: A religious man should know something of forgiving seventy times seven. And if he chooses to ignore that, refer him to John (New Testament) which suggests that he who is without sin cast the first stone.

DEAR ABBY: My sister is a 28-year-old divorcee. She's very good-looking and a live wire. She has no children. She met a man in Florida last winter. He is 55 years old but doesn't look it. My sister has convinced him that life begins at 40. He wants to marry her, but here's the problem: This man wants my sister to keep a kosher kitchen. She's never done it before and hates to go to all that bother. Do you think she should keep kosher for this man?

BEA

DEAR BEA: Not unless the man is Jewish.

DEAR ABBY: I was visiting with relatives living in a small town over Memorial Day. This town has three ministers and, instead of the three walking in the parade, one rode a bicycle. Now there is a time and place for everything. As far as I am concerned, that was the wrong place to be riding a bicycle. The members of his congregation were embarrassed, which I can easily understand. I think we should be reverent about things pertaining to our country and what the boys did for us. Ministers are always telling us what to do and not to do, while they themselves don't practice what they preach. What do you think?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: And we should not be critical until we know all the facts. For all we know, the minister who rode the bicycle in the Memorial Parade might have been unable to walk because of an injury sustained in World War II.

DEAR ABBY: Anybody who says that women have equal rights in this country is just kidding himself.

If a man's trousers are too tight, he's just put on a little weight. (If a woman's skirt is too tight, she's trying to be sexy.)

If a man stands on a corner, he's getting some fresh air. (If a woman stands on a corner, she's looking to be picked up.)

If a man has one drink too many, it just "slipped up" on him. (If a woman does, she's a lush.)

If a man has a night out with the boys, he's worked hard all day and needs to "relax." (If his wife has a night out with the girls, she's up to no good and ought to be home with her family.)

If a man cheats on his wife, his wife is probably a cold fish and he's only human. (If a woman cheats, she's a tramp.)

If a kid turns out good, he's a chip off the old block. (If he turns out bad, his mother did a rotten job raising him.)

Right, Abby? It's a man's world.

T'AINT FAIR
SNYDER, TEXAS

DEAR T'AINT: Right! And who said otherwise? But they're the only other sex we have.

MR. AND MRS. LEO LYLE JR.

Candlelight Wedding Performed

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Jane Fitzgerald and Leo Lyle Jr., Friday evening, July 9 in Dunn Baptist Church of Dunn. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald of Delhi and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lyle.

Rev. Denver Smith performed the double ring ceremony before standing baskets of white gladioli with pom-mums and seven point candlabra with burning white tapers. White satin bows marked the guests pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a gown of white bridal satin with a fitted bodice of Chantilly Lace, full length sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was held in place by a seed pearl tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of Lily of the Valley and white orchid atop her white Rainbow Bible.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Linda Fitzgerald, and bridesmaids was the sister of the groom, Sarah Lyle of Rayville. They wore street length dresses of green brocade and carried bouquets of yellow pom-mums with yellow satin streamer.

Bobby Clarkson and Larry Lyle served as candle lighters and ushers.

Miss Kathleen Coates of Dunn rendered nuptial music for the candlelighted ceremony.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue lace dress with white accessories. The groom's mother was gowned in a navy blue shuntung suit with matching accessories.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The reception table was covered with a lace cloth over green and held the traditional wedding cake served by Rose Mary Morgan of Crossett, Arkansas. The lime green punch was served by Mrs. Shirley Davis of Dunn. Miss Wanda Junkin, Miss Jean Nichols, Mrs. Hazel Walker and Mrs. Myrtle Coates assisted with the courtesies.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will make their home in Morton, Mississippi where the bridegroom is employed.

Fall Fashion Flashes

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Look for:

. . . . the importance of detailing in a season where the silhouette is still unchanged, as in ball buttons on loops, wrap skirts, cuff necklines.

. . . the op art prints, seen now mostly in fringe fashions like silk raincoats, an occasional suit blouse, lounge wear and a rare chiffon evening dress.

. . . the return of fur trims after a couple of seasons without, mostly as borders on Russian-style jackets, but also on evening and cocktail dress hemlines.

. . . continuing steady popularity of tunic dresses, in slim and dirndl shapes, with the rajah silhouette most popular for cocktail tunic styles.

. . . the lightness of all fall fabrics, with tweeds looking bulky but really souffle in the hand, coats in rich but airy meltons, dresses in tissue crepe.

Beta Sigma Phi Entertains At Card Social

The Beta Pi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its monthly social in the home of Mrs. Jerry McDonald on Fortune Drive in Treasure Island. Various table games were available, with the winners receiving a wrapped gift after each game. Mrs. Jerry Parsons was the over all winner of the evening.

Name tags were used to select the winner of door prize, Mrs. A. L. Pete.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Lonnie Roark, Mrs. Milton Fuller, Mrs. Pat McCarty, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. Vince Hubka, Miss Gyl Rowell, Mrs. Billy Spooner, Mrs. Pate, Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. McDonald.

Next month's activities for the group include an ice cream party for the children of the members.

Hints From Heloise

Never Clean Floors With Steel Wool

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

Couldn't someone invent a stick or gadget with a way to hold that precious steel wool pad on the end of it, so we could go over our floors to remove heel marks and accumulated waxes and not have to get down on our hands and knees?

Mrs. R. Lee

Dear Mrs. Lee:

Please DON'T use steel wool to clean any kind of floor. Ruins 'em.

Those black streaks are caused by simulated rubber heels on shoes. Real rubber won't make these marks.

Why not try this:

They may be removed by applying lighter fluid on a soft cloth and rubbing the mark. Paste wax can also be used.

Another method is dipping a soft cloth in kerosene, then rub and wipe dry.

Always be sure to test a hidden spot first and to follow instructions and cautions on the container.

This method works on linoleum, congoleum, asphalt tile, parquet floors, as well as hardwood, ceramic and terrazo floors.

Try it.

Dear Heloise:

My opened jar of leftover pimento is kept in the freezer.

When a salad is being prepared, this jar is set out first. By the time the other vegetables are chopped, the pimento has thawed enough to rake a fork through, and thus the pimento is chopped perfectly in uniform tiny tidbits.

Helen Spilly

Dear Heloise:

Now that summer is here, I know many women have a problem with the insides of open-toed and open-heeled summer shoes. Because of perspiration, etc., the inside soles and heels often fade, rip, become soiled, and look rather shabby.

I cut a piece of adhesive-backed paper to the exact size of my shoe and apply it to the inside sole. The plastic-paper is easily applied because of the gum backing and it looks very attractive. It is also easy to keep clean and really compliments the shoes.

I do this to house slippers, too.

It's particularly good for children's shoes and sandals.

Try it — you'll like it.

Mrs. Jean Pavella

Dear Heloise:

In the summer I use TV dinner trays for relishes for outdoor table or picnics.

I fill the sections with carrot sticks, celery, radishes, etc., then put three or four ice cubes on top and cover with foil.

We have crisp relishes, no broken jars, and it's more attractive on the table.

Mrs. Bill E. Forrester

Dear Heloise:

To keep my slipcovers straight, I nailed three brads on the bottom of the frame of the sofa. Then I sewed three double strips of cotton tape into the bottom seam of the slipcover. I ran these through the brads and tied them in bows (for easy untying).

Now my slipcover remains straight, and I remain cool, calm and collected.

Elizabeth Collins

Dear Heloise:

I purchased a sprinkler cork at the dime store and use it on an empty, plastic, pint detergent bottle.

I just took the cap off the bottle and inserted the sprinkler cork, and I have a light, pliable clothes sprinkler.

CLINCHING ARGUMENT

For the homemaker who needs a clincher in her campaign for a new terrace, save this for the finale: every square foot of paved terrace means a square foot less lawn to mow. A spacious terrace of weatherproof, easily maintained ceramic mocaic or quarry tile means that the family lawn mower can spend more time at ease in the shade.

MRS. THOMAS GAYLE WREN

Gayle Wren, Bride Plan Home Here

Mrs. Thomas Gayle Wren Jan Miss Regina Levinson and Thomas Gayle Wren exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony Saturday, July 3 in Waples Methodist Church, Denison, Texas. Rev. Walter Underwood officiated.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Levinson of Denison, received her degree in elementary education from Centenary College, Shreveport in June. Mr. Wren, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wren of Delhi, is presently enrolled in the school of pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Vows were exchanged in a setting of lighted candles, magnolia trees and arrangements of pink roses. Dutch lilac, gladioli and pompons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a Spanish design gown of white lace over peau de soie with panels of French antique lace cascading from the neckline. A crown of pearls held her cathedral length veil of illusion. She carried an heirloom handerchief with her bouquet of white roses, fleu d'amour and white cattleya orchids. She wore a pearl and diamond pendant a gift of the groom.

Wearing floor length gowns of lilac Irish linen with mauve satin banding the empire waistlines were the bride's attendants, Mrs. Dave Donaldson, Chicago, Ill., matron of honor and bridesmaids, Miss Linda Howard, Houston; Mrs. Don Adair, Carthage; Miss Rhonda Douglas, Dallas, Miss Karen Barnes, Denison; Mrs. B. C. Thomas, Dallas and Mrs. P. C. Scoggins, College Station. They carried cascade bouquets of pink roses and purple cattleya orchids.

Mr. Wren attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Don Adair, Carthage; James Mounger of Rayville; Bill Bowker, Shreveport; Don Harris, Dallas and Rick Stegall, Delhi.

The bride's mother was wearing a gown of bone French lace over turquoise and a corsage of bronze orchids. Mrs. Wren, mother of the groom, wore a gown of powder blue lace and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in fellowship hall of the church where the bride's colors of pink and orchid were carried out in appointments. The couple will reside for the summer in Laverne, Oklahoma, returning to Monroe in the fall where they will live the next two years while Mr. Wren completes his studies in pharmacy at Northeast.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 7-17

White Man Says He's Not Guilty Of Raping Negro

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Norman Cannon, 19, a white Sumrall man, pleaded innocent here Friday to a charge he raped a 15-year-old Negro girl.

Authorities held Cannon in Forrest County Jail without bond to await action by the grand jury now in session for the July term of court.

Cannon was arrested near here Thursday when he was seen driving in a car being sought by authorities after its description was given by the girl.

She told officers her assailant had come to her Hattiesburg home and said he wanted her to baby sit for him and he would drive her across town to his house.

Instead, she said, her attacker drove her to a wooded area northwest of here where he pulled a knife and said he would kill her if she did not submit to him.

It's affected her so that even in the current Paree heat wave the opera star doesn't venture outdoors without a fur wrapped around her shoulders . . . The lines outside the Plaza Theatre for "The Knack" are as wild and way-out as the zany film inside. The other night there was a bearded fellow carrying an overweight monkey on his shoulder and two girls wearing the shortest shorts this side of St. Tropez, (The girls got in, but not the chap with the chimp.) . . . It's not been officially confirmed — at least in the U.S. — but rumors have Mrs. Philipe Wahl expecting a baby. She's better known as Irina Demick, star of "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," and if the reports are true, she must be ecstatic. When she was in New York in June she told me she was "very disappointed" that she had been married two years and there was no baby yet; she especially yearns for a little girl. . . .

The studio never expected this kind of public relations problem — but they figure it's the sort of controversy that spells big box office . . . Sharon Percy, daughter of former Illinois Gov. "Chuck" Percy, is spending the summer working for John Lindsay's mayoralty campaign . . . . The promotion boys at Fleet Publishing have been combing the inside joke with the college try — they're trying to get Rep. Adam Powell to comment one way or the other about his new biography, "Adam Clayton Powell and the Politics of Race, by Neil Hickey and Ed Edwin. So far the congressman won't even admit he's read the book, which may be the first time in his colorful career that he's ever been silent about anything.

No More Dieting For Heavy Man; He Already Has

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) —William J. Cobb weighs 232 pounds, but he isn't going on a diet. He's been.

Cobb, formerly known as Happy Humphrey, the world's largest wrestler, is a shadow of his old self.

He used to weigh 802 pounds and his grocery bill ranged from $25 to $35 a day.

"I ate one meal a day," he recalls. "I started eating in the morning and didn't finish until night."

Cobb's battle of the bulge was disclosed Friday in a copyrighted story by the Atlanta Constitution. It told how the 39-year-old Cobb shed nearly 600 pounds as a volunteer patient of the Medical College of Georgia's teaching hospital at Augusta.

Ellender Won't Back Present Cotton Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Friday he "could not possibly support" the cotton program proposed by the House Agriculture Committee in an omnibus farm bill.

The cotton program as drafted in the bill, he said, is quite complicated and "in my opinion, it tries to provide something for everybody and as a result goes off in all directions."

Ellender gave his conclusions concerning the program after discussing the commission. in a talk for broadcast in Louisiana.

He said the 4-year program contained in the House bill "radically changes the direction of the program from one of mandatory controls to a voluntary program similar to that for feed grains and wheat."

The bill would permit anyone to grow as much cotton as he desired but without any government supports or payments. It would provide low-level loans and direct payments, however, to those farmers who cooperated with the program and reduced their plantings below their allotments. The bill would require a 15 per cent cut in acreage allotments by cooperators and would permit cuts up to 35 per cent.

Farmers cutting 35 per cent and staying within their domestic allotments — 65 per cent of the total allotments—would get a higher payment.

WORK IS PROGRESSING on the Delhi Municipal Airport, which will be completed later this month. This is a shot of construction activity at the scene. (Photo by David Hurley)

Delhi Airport Work Nearing Completion

DELHI (Special) — Work on the Delhi Municipal Airport, located about four miles south of town on Louisiana Highway 17, is scheduled for completion later this month.

Part of the property on which the airstrip is being built was given to the town by Columbia Gulf Transmission Company, with the stipulation that the town purchase additional property to extend and improve the strip, which it did.

This project is a cooperative effort between Delhi and the State Department of Public Works.

First, the landing strip and surrounding areas were graded and made ready for the application of soil cement. Workmen are now in the process of applying asphalt.

Length of the strip will be 3,000 feet of asphalt surface, with an additional 850 feet of turf. Width of the strip will be 75 feet. The airport will also have an asphalt-surfaced parking area 100 feet wide, and 300 feet in length.

According to Mayor Roy Snider, the town plans to install landing lights. Later, plans are to build an all-weather road from La. Hwy. 17 to the airport, a distance of 1600 feet.

"This airport will certainly make air travel convenient for the people in our area. We also hope it will be an inducement in bringing new industry into the area", Snider said. The landing strip will accommidate any private airplane, with the exception of jet-propelled craft.

"Many people have helped with this project, and it would be impossible to name them all," Mayor Snider said. "I would however like to express our deep appreciation to Bill Gaddis, L. E. Golsby Jr., Lanny Rundell, Ezra Rundell, Charles Black, James Calloway, and the co-owners of Macon Flying Service, Ken Stone and Henry Baker. These men made land available to the town for rights of way for roads and drainage."

In the future, plans will possibly include construction of buildings at the site.

Spelling Champ Slated To Enter Louisiana Tech

RUSTON (Special) — One of the 1964 participants in the Louisiana Tech program of college credit for high school seniors, who plans to enter Tech as a freshman in September, is a national spelling champion.

He is Carroll Rhymes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Rhymes of Quitman.

Rhymes led his team to the national championship in spelling at the recent convention of the National Future Business Leaders of America held in Cincinnati.

He was an honor graduate of the 1965 Quitman High School class and plans to enroll in the School of Education here this fall.

The Quitman F.B.L.A. was re-activated during the 1964-65 school year by James W. Kavanaugh of Ruston, the business education teacher at the Jackson Parish school. Rhymes represented the Quitman chapter at the state convention before progressing to the national competition.

He was one of three members of the Louisiana spelling team and had the opportunity to begin the competition and went on through the contest without missing a word, downing more than 90 spellers from teams from 33 states.

Public Meeting Of Klan Slated

COLUMBIA (Special) — The Ku Klux Klan will hold a public meeting at the Caldwell Parish Community Center tonight at 8 o'clock, according to a spokesman.

Several guest speakers will be featured during the meeting.

Mother Rejoices; Son Free

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A mother's prayers have been answered with word that her only son, a career soldier who volunteered for a second tour of duty in Viet Nam, has become the only American captive to escape from the Viet Cong.

"Thank my good God," said Mary Elorreaga, 47, after official word of her son's safe return to American hands was released. "My prayers have been answered."

Sgt. 1.C. Isaac Camacho, 28, of El Paso, reached American lines in Viet Nam on Tuesday, the only one of 14 Americans held by the Viet Cong to escape, a military spokesman in Saigon said.

Camacho, who entered the Army three days after graduation from high school here, was one of the first Americans nabbed in the guerrilla war, his mother said. He was captured when several hundred Viet Cong overran a camp 25 miles northwest of Saigon on Nov. 24, 1963, four months after he was wounded in action.

"He is my only boy, my only son," Mrs. Elorreaga said. "I've always been so proud of him. I am the happiest mother in the world.

"I had not a word, no letters from my boy. And I have spent many lonely nights in that chair," she said pointing to a high-backed chair in the living room. "I prayed day and night for 20 long months."

"To us he was always alive," Camacho's sister, Mrs. John Losoy, 29, said.

Camacho, an athletic youth, has been home little since deciding on a military career. His father died about the same time he entered the Army.

He was in Lebanon during the crisis there, served in Germany, Okinawa, Formosa and Japan before going to Viet Nam for the first time in 1961 as an airborne training instructor. After 18 months, he returned to his family for a 60-day furlough, then volunteered to return to the wartorn country.

"I am very anxious to see my son again, to touch him, to see him," his mother said.

"Our relatives are in California and all over, but I'm sure they'll try to get here to see him," Mrs. Losoy said.

Saigon military authorities said Camacho was apparently in good condition after his imprisonment. Details of his escape were not disclosed, partially because the information might harm other U.S. prisoners.

"All we know is that he is back in United States hands," his sister said.

"We were just overjoyed; we were speechless after all this time — 20 months of waiting."

Mr. Editor... Tell Me, Please

If you have a question that you want answered, write or call "Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you in this column.

If I draw a salary of $100 a week and $17 is withheld from it, does the company also pay $17?

If the entire amount of your weekly withholding is $17, the answer is no. Part of the $17 would be federal and state income tax. The company does not match this. However, a portion of the withholding is probably Social Security tax. The company does match this amount.

On June 15, 1966, I will be 18 years old. I will also be a high school graduate. Can I join the Marine Corps at 18 without my parents' consent? I am interested in the "recon" Marines. What are the qualifications? Can I go to college and get a Marine Corps commission in the ROTC? If I join the Marines, what kind of uniform will I be given? Is the dress blue uniform issued or does it have to be purchased? If purchased, how much would it cost? Can you get it when you complete boot training? Can you wear the blue uniform anytime you want?

The local Marine Corps recruiter says that you can join the Corps at age 18 without parental consent. He said the only qualification that he knows for reconnaissance operations in the Corps is that you be physically qualified. He added that this is "rough duty." The physical qualifications would be rather severe. As for getting a commission in the Marine Corps through ROTC, it can be done through the Naval ROTC (NROTC). This is offered only at selected colleges and universities, however, and the only one in Louisiana is at Tulane.

Upon arrival at the recruit training depot — one at Parris Island, S. C., and the other at San Diego, Calif., the new recruit is issued his uniform clothing. The basic issue consists of khaki uniforms, tropical worsted uniforms, the winter green uniform, shoes, boots, socks and underwear plus the utility or work uniform. The dress blues must be bought by the individual Marine. They are issued only for certain types of duty — such as sea duty. The total cost of one uniform is about $34. It can be purchased by the recruiting graduating from "boot camp" and can be worn at anytime on leave or liberty. When on duty, however, the uniform of the day as prescribed by the commanding officer must be worn.

Please tell me when is the best time of the year to cut hydrangeas back to have a bush of pretty blooms in spring and summer instead of a large bush with very few blooms.

Prune hydrangeas right after the blooming period is over, is the advice of Mrs. John Tolar of the Fifth District Garden Center here. "Prune moderately to keep a nice symmetrical form to the plant. The hydrangea is a summer shrub and if you pruned about six months ahead of the blooming period you would cut off the blooms that are forming."

I recently read a book that involved a set of circumstances revolving around a banyan tree. What type tree is this?

A banyan is a species of fig that assumes a remarkable form as a tree; in a spectacular fashion, aerial roots emanate from its branches, descend and take root in the soil to become new trunks. The banyan, native to tropical Asia, reaches tremendous proportions: A height up to 100 feet and an indefinite later spread by means of its aerial roots. One tree may in time assume the appearance of a very dense thicket as a result of the tangling of stems and trunks.

What is the Point-Four Plan?

Actually, not "is" but rather "was" would be a better way to state the question. It was a program advocated by President Harry Truman as the fourth point of proposed U. S. policy in his inaugural address Jan. 20, 1949. Point Four called for "a bold new program for making the benefits of our scientific advances and industrial progress available for the improvement and growth of under-developed areas." Emphasizing a type of international, intergovernmental educational program that came to be known as technical assistance and that long had been carried out privately by missionaries and overseas branches of industrial corporations, Point Four, with massive economic aid as exemplified by the European recovery program, refugee and disaster assistance and military assistance, later formed one of the principal foreign aid activities of U. S. mutual security programs. Its principal focus has been on health, education and agriculture. So, it really was the beginning of modern foreign aid.

What is Blair House in Washington? Is it an official residence of some kind?

Blair House is the President's guest house. It fronts on Pensylvania Avenue northwest of the White House and is the official residence of heads of state who visit Washington. It was built in 1824 and was the home of Francis Preston Blair, political leader and adviser to President Abraham Lincoln. President Harry Truman lived in Blair House from 1948 until 1952 while the White House was being rebuilt. It was while he lived in Blair House that two political fanatics tried to shoot their way in on Nov. 1, 1965, killing one guard and wounding two others.

At what age can a man retire and draw his social security and not draw it for being disabled. What percentage is then deducted?

Local social security representatives said a man can draw social security when he reaches age 62, drawing approximately 80 per cent of the benefits he would have collected had he waited until age 65 to retire. For each month he lacks being 65, 5-9 of 1 per cent is deducted from the total amount of benefit he would have received at age 65.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Van Dellen

CIRRHOSIS OF THE LIVER

The person who drinks too much should abstain completely; if not he should go on the wagon for 6 weeks every year. This is done to spare the liver and helps avoid cirrhosis. In addition, the brief repose boosts the drinker's ego by demonstrating whether he or the alcohol is boss.

Cirrhosis of the liver is a slowly progressive disease that may extend over a period of 20 or more years. The condition may exist for years before tests show impaired liver function. The process is reversible when detected early and the individual stops drinking. The 6 week vacation from alcohol is made to order for the individual with early signs of liver trouble, provided he is capable of returning to moderation.

W do not know how alcoholism, malnutrition, or both, produce hepatic injury. The damaged liver enlarges due to fat infiltration. The cells are gradually replaced with fibrous or scar tissue leading to contraction of the organ. The end result is a small, nonfunctioning liver. The fibrous tissue constricts the hepatic blood vessels and blockage leads to engorgement of the veins of the stomach and accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity. The outlook is grave when this stage is reached.

Liver disorders usually cause indigestion, gas, nausea, and loss of weight. Many have no appetite in the morning. The alcoholic destined to develop cirrhosis also has many findings that are difficult to explain. these include redness of the palms and nose, dilated spider veins on the face and upper abdomen, loss of chest hair, contractures of the fingers, and enlarged breasts in men. Many are color blind. There is likely to be a gradual loss of strength with wasting of the tissues. The skin is sallow and dry. Bleeding from the stomach is common, especially when the liver begins to shrink.

The treatment of cirrhosis includes rest, a well - balanced diet, strict elimination of alcohol, and an orderly way of life. The road to recovey is long and hard; setbacks are common and the victim needs encouragment.

Rockefeller Says He's Not Quitting

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller served notice Friday on party dissidents that he is not going to be easily shoved aside. He reiterated his determination to run for a third term in 1966.

And he left open his long-standing ambition for the GOP presidential nomination, telling a news conference: "We are so far away from 1968 it is meaningless. I am not giving it time or thought."

There was nothing new in Rockefeller's announcement that he will run again for governor — he said the same thing as long ago as May 5. But the timing seemed significant since there have been rumblings of discontent with Rockefeller from the ranks of the state Republican party.

The gist of this criticism is that Rockefeller's popularity with New York voters has waned, and that if he runs next year he may take the party down to defeat with him.

On this subject Rockefeller, just back from an 11-day vacation at his Venezuela ranch, told newsmen that he recently had to increase taxes, and added: "You always go through a period of reaction following that. I'm very proud of our record of the past seven years."

Rockefeller denied the Republican party was split in New York, and said he thought his opposition "is more in the newspapers than anywhere else."

Dissident support has appeared to center on Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., the state's best GOP vote-getter. He outpolled Rockefeller by nearly 200,000 votes in the 1962 election.

Javits is believed to have his eye on eventual nomination for vice president — in fact Rockefeller mentioned that in his news conference. In furtherance of that ambition, it is presumed, the senator let it be known last January that he did not feel bound to support Rockefeller for president in 1968, as he has in the past.

However, Javits is on record publicly as supporting Rockefeller for re-election in next year's gubernatorial contest. In Washington, Javits repeated that pledge of support but called Rockefeller's comment on his vice-presidential aspirations "completely unrealistic."

"Nobody runs for vice president," Javits said. "The man who is nominated for president will choose his vice-presidential candidate. And that is a long way off."

Javits also dismissed reports that he wants to be governor or would try to persuade Rockefeller not to run again.

Passenger On Motorbike Hurt

A 16-year-old Monroe youth was injured slightly when the motorbike on which he was a passenger was struck by an auto, police records showed Friday.

Treated and released at St. Francis Hospital was Neal Robinson of 204 S. 2nd St., Monroe.

According to reports, the motorbike, driven by Samuel T. Young, 15, of 206½ S. 2nd St., Monroe, was struck by an auto driven by Mattie H. Mayer of 619 Jackson St. The woman was ticketed for negligent driving. The accident occured on Jackson Street Thursday.

Johnson Repeats Orders To Trim Down Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the second straight day President Johnson called in government officials Friday to tell them to cut costs by budget-making time.

The President, who has managed to keep the budget under the magic $100 billion figure for each of the past two years through similar techniques, again took a personal hand in the government's economy drive.

He has indicated there is a serious question whether the budget could remain under $100 billion next year in light of the increased cost of the Vietnamese war and his Great Society programs. For the current fiscal year, the budget is $99.7 billion, with a deficit of $5.3 billion.

At Friday's session Johnson told a gathering of officials from various departments and agencies, "I want each of you to bear in mind that the great burden of federal taxation is not on the rich of this country, not on the poor of this country, but on the average family."

He placed heavy stress on reduced government costs to permit the United States to finance its world leadership in education, health and other fields.

City Sunday Bus Schedule Is Set

Finance Commissioner H. W. McSherry said Friday the Park Avenue bus will operate on a 40-minute schedule Sunday.

Completing its run every 40 minutes, the bus, McSherry explained, will leave downtown at 7 a.m. for the first route. The last one will leave at 2:20 p.m.

McSherry said the bus will depart from the northend of Park Avenue on route to downtown at 2:40 p.m.

Tunnel's Opening Provides Scene For Accord, Discord

MONT BLANC TUNNEL (AP) — The presidents of Italy and France joined Friday in opening the Mont Blanc Tunnel and called it an example of international cooperation. Then they reaffirmed their opposing views about European unity.

The ceremony high in the Alps on both sides of the world's longest highway tunnel demonstrated the hopes and frustrations in the postwar drive toward European unity.

Presidents Charles de Gaulle of France and Giuseppe Saraget of Italy took huge scissors and snipped tricolor ribbons on the French side of the tunnel. Then they traveled through the 7.2-mile, two-lane tunnel and emerged in Italy for foral speeches, followed by almost an hour and a half of political conferences.

It was raining in France. It was sunny in Italy.

And Saraget was the more forceful in his speech. It was a pointed appeal to De Gaulle to seek to overcome differences in the European Common Market.

The Italian president said the $64-million tunnel was "'above all a symbol" that men could "conquer even the greatest obstacles in order to meet in works of peace."

Addressing himself directly to De Gaulle, he said the tunnel was "an augury and step toward that broader union" which France, Italy and their allies seek.

De Gaulle did not mention the Common Market or European unity, but said the tunnel was a great technical, economic and political event. He spoke of international cooperation and the possible achievement of what he called a "European Europe."

Then, with the speeches over, De Gaulle and Saraget and their foreign ministers conferred in the Italian resort of Courmayeur. Informed sources agreed there had been no progress toward resolving differing views on the Common Market.

French sources said each side reaffirmed but clarified positions. They said they were "neither more optimistic nor more pessimistic" than before the talks. Italian sources said there "was complete agreement on the disagreement."

Both sides said nothing much was expected in the talks because the purpose of the meeting was the opening of the tunnel.

The De Gaulle-Saragat encounter has aroused interest, however. Pope Paul VI sent the two presidents telegrams saying he was present at the tunnel opening in spirit and hoped it would be an example for international cooperation.

At the ceremonies at the Italian end of the tunnel there was a single incident that underlined the European unity hopes. A young Italian member of the European Federalist movement managed to race up the steps of the rostrum and give petitions to the two presidents, urging them to work for a federal Europe.

The dash by the youth upset some of the tightest security arrangements seen in the Alps in years. Heavily armed police and soldiers were on both sides of the tunnel and security men checked and rechecked every inch of the passage way before the presidents went through it.

Both Italy and France expect the tunnel to be an important economic element, easing tourist traffic and trade through an Alpine barrier that has always stood between sunny Italy and northern Europe. But the general public won't be able to use it for a few days, until police and customs posts are completed at the Italian end.

Monroyan Gets Legion Of Merit

WASHINGTON — Col. Joseph M. Whitfield, USAF of Monroe, was recently awarded one of the nation's highest peace time awards, the Legion of Merit.

Alvin Friedman, deputy assistant of defense for international security affairs, presented the award for outstanding service as Whitfield's wife and daughter looked on.

After serving in the Office of International Security Affairs for two and a half years, Whitfield has been assigned as the new deputy chief of the military assistance group in Bonn, Germany.

Course Offered In Sailboating

The local chapter of the Red Cross will sponsor its first course in sailboating, according to chapter chairman, Louis E. Gruber.

Charles Dubin, instructor, will instruct a class free. Registrations will be taken at 323-5141, Gruber said.

MISS CHERRY WISENOR

DeMolays Name Miss Wisenor As Sweetheart

Miss Cherry Wisenor, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Wisenor of 316 Pecan Dr., Monroe, and a freshman at Northeast Louisiana State College, has been named DeMolay Sweetheart by the Ouachita Chapter of DeMolay.

Miss Wisenor will attend the DeMolay conclave in New Orleans Aug. 12-13 as guest of the local group after officially beginning her reign as sweetheart at the 2 p.m. meeting of the local DeMolays Sunday at the West Monroe Masonic Temple.

During Sunday's meeting, the Ouachita chapter will host Bunkie DeMolays who will initiate and receive some 25 DeMolay members from the area into their respective chapters.

All local DeMolays, and Master Masons and Shriners are invited to attend the program which will include a covered dish dinner, according to A. H. Edmonds, member of the advisory board.

Negro Runs Police In Southern Town

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A retired Negro sawmill worker who believes in segregation has been given the job of police chief in this small northeast Georgia town, a target of civil rights demonstrations.

"I didn't want it," the new chief, Jesse Meadows, 66, a 200-pound six-footer, said Friday. Meadows said he had no formal education and once served time in prison on a liquor conviction.

"The city, state and county got me into this and I'll have to do the best I can," Meadows said in a telephone interview shortly after arresting a Negro picket.

Sheriff M. B. Moore said earlier that Meadows was selected by the City Council and began his duties Thursday.

The sheriff was asked why a Negro was chosen as police chief.

"We didn't have one," the sheriff said.

The town has two police officers — Meadows on duty during the daytime and a white policeman at night. Technically Meadows is in charge of the white policeman.

"Meadows is just a tool," said Richard Copeland, 21, a civil rights worker from San Diego, Calif. "He is more antagonistic toward us than some of the white persons here."

Copeland is one of six white persons from out of town working with Negroes in voter registration and a boycott of white stores. He said that two white men had threatened him and a companion, Howard Price, Brockton, Mass., on the street Thursday.

Asked about the charges that he was intimidating the civil rights workers, Meadows replied: "I'm not working against them. But they block the street so the white folks can't get through. We've had no trouble."

Meadows said he arrested a Negro youth, Frank Bates, who was leading a small group of Negro pickets.

"I told him to let the pickets go up to the corner, and he turned around in the middle of the street and started back," Meadows said. He said Bates would be charged with failing to obey an officer.

"I didn't want to be bothered up with his crowd," Meadows said. Asked what his salary was, he said: "I don't know about the pay. They just got me hired until they can get a replacement. They haven't said what they were going to pay."

Meadows said he lived with his wife in this town where he was born. He worked at a sawmill until he retired a few years ago.

Asked about the civil rights workers, he said:

"They ought to go on back home and let us alone. I've been living here ever since I was born. These white folks have never done anything to us."

Many years ago, Meadows said, he served more than a year in a state prison — "I told a lie about some liquor." He said that he never went to school, but "I know what right is."

Demonstrations began here last May in protest to the county's decision to now renew the contracts of five Negro teachers.

Crawfordville, about 100 miles east of Atlanta, is the seat of Taliaferro County which has a population of 3,370, about equally divided between white and Negro residents. The town itself has a population of about 800 and consists of a dozen stores around an old red brick, three-story courthouse with its big clock tower.

It has become the only town in the South with a biracial population that has a Negro police chief.

Bodies Of Three Found In Utah Plane Wreckage

RICHFIELD, Utah (Special) — The bodies of a family of three, the mother of which is survived by a brother, G. D. Babin of Jonesville, La., were found Friday in the wreckage of their small airplane which crashed June 11 in the mountains of central Utah.

Sheriff Rex Hutsman of Sivier Country said the bodies, identified from papers and other belongings and the wing number of their airplane, were those of J. Fred Jeansonne, 50, his wife, Genevieve, 48, and their daughter, Suzanne, 16, all of Hobbs, N. M.

The Jeansonnes disappeared while on a flight in a Piper Cherokee from Salt Lake City to Farmington, N. M.

Mr. Jeansonne was district superintendent of the Humble Oil and Refining Company's Clearfork unit at Hobbs.

The bodies will be sent to Hobbs for funeral rites.

Mrs. Jeansonne was formerly of Louisiana.

The sheriff said the pilot "nearly had it made" over a 9,000-foot pass, but clipped some trees and dived into the ground just short of the summit.

Three Utah Civil Air Patrol flyers were killed when their plane crashed in a search for the Jeansonne craft.

Wreckage of the Jeansonne plane was found Thursday by a sheepherder about 60 miles northeast of Richfield.
